Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular disease. They were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group performed no exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training program significantly increased the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR increased from 68 to 72 beats per minute at rest and from 145 to 155 beats per minute during exercise. The EE increased from 1.2 to 1.4 kcal per minute at rest and from 2.5 to 3.0 kcal per minute during exercise. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial or non-natural light sources. To avoid this, there are laws in the province that regulate the use of artificial light.
- Increased exposure to light will also negatively affect the ability to absorb nutrients and vitamins, the length of the season may also be disrupted by the use of indoor lighting systems.
- The use of artificial light for long periods of time may change the plant's natural life processes, including flowering and fruiting. Many plants are not suitable for these periods of artificial light. Some plants are resistant to the use of artificial light.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (52 connections for One Connection®) will affect the overall health, safety and life of the system. Proper ventilation is critical to maintain proper ventilation. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a variety of problems with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, if the price of the output rises, the producer will increase its output level. This is because the producer will find it more profitable to produce more of the output. Conversely, if the price of the output falls, the producer will decrease its output level. This is because the producer will find it less profitable to produce less of the output.

- 20 Do not test the power switch on the immersion pump, or otherwise test the pump's motor and capacitor. If they are faulty or short-circuited, this will affect the power specifications outlined in the test and therefore the power outputs based on the product's wattage and voltage specifications.
- 21 Do not touch the power switch or the power switch cable. They are live circuits that are subject to an increased risk of electric shock when exposed. They are also subject to the effects of the electrical field of the pump and should not be touched. Do not touch the power switch or the power switch cable when the pump is on. They will heat up when the pump is on.
- 22 Do not touch the pump's motor or the pump's motor cable. They will heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on.
- 23 Do not touch the pump's motor or the pump's motor cable. They will heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on.
- 24 Do not touch the pump's motor or the pump's motor cable. They will heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on.
- 25 Do not touch the pump's motor or the pump's motor cable. They will heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on. They will also heat up when the pump is on.
