Global Queens Joseph Heathcott,2023-10-03 Winner The David R Coffin Publication Grant A vibrant exploration of the everyday life of one of the most diverse places in the world Queens New York Remade by decades of immigration Queens New York has emerged as an emblematic space of social mixing and encounters across multiple lines of difference With its expansive subdivisions tangled highways and centerless form it is also New York's most enigmatic borough. It can feel alternately like a big city, a tight knit village, a featureless industrial zone, or a sprawling suburban community. Through more than 200 contemporary photographs, Joseph Heathcott captures this multifaceted borough and one of the most diverse places in the United States. Drawn from more than a decade of roaming around Queens and snapping photos, Heathcott conveys the juxtaposition of the ordinary and the extraordinary, the mundane and the surprising, and the staggering social diversity that best characterizes Queens. At the heart of the story are two separate but entwined histories: the rapid expansion of the borough's built environment through the twentieth century and the millions of people who have traveled from near and far to call Queens home. Newcomers have had to confront discrimination, white racial hostility, legal challenges, and language barriers. They have had to struggle to find adequate housing, places to worship, and jobs that pay enough to survive. And they have done all of this in the borough's jumbled collection of neighborhoods, housing types, civic and religious institutions, factories, and warehouses, commercial streets, and strip malls. Heathcott makes primary use of documentary photography to bring these social and spatial realities of everyday life into relief. He also draws on demographic data, archival sources, planning documents, news stories, and reports. The result is a visual meditation on Queens that provides clues about an urban future where notions of citizenship and belonging are negotiated across multiple lines of difference, but where a sense of getting along, however roughly textured and unfinished, has taken hold in the everyday life of the streets.

Reading and Writing in the Global Workplace Beatrice Quarshie Smith, 2012-06-14

Reading and Writing in the Global Workplace: Gender Literacy and Outsourcing in Ghana by Beatrice Quarshie Smith explores the conditions that underlie the outsourcing of US

data processing work in Ghana Here Beatrice Quarshie Smith describes the convergence and interplay of at least four different socio economic forces 1 the digital and satellite technology enabling virtual environments for global outsourced data processing 2 the historical development of Ghana as a politically stable Anglophone society with a relatively strong tradition of public education 3 the neoliberal economic restructuring policies advanced by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund and 4 the ready availability of women seeking to enter the formal wage economy either to seek independence from their roles within traditional families or in order to support their families The author s comparative study of two distinctly different workplaces reveals significant insights about problems of organizational hierarchy and management employee relations in the cross cultural environments of out sourced business and IT process work Through extensive interviews the book sheds light on the educational backgrounds day to day struggles fears and aspirations of the workers Quarshie Smith develops this multi faceted analysis with keen insights into the representational limitations and ethical responsibilities of the researcher This pioneering study about outsourced data processing work in West Africa opens up a new area for research and offers a fresh perspective from which to consider outsourcing in other regions of the globe
