Chicago's History

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

1. The Great Chicago Fire started on Sunday, October 4, 1871. It burned for two days and destroyed much of the city. The fire started in a barn owned by O'Leary's family. The fire spread to the city's business district, which was made of wooden buildings. The fire destroyed many buildings, including the city's main newspaper building. The fire also destroyed the city's main stock exchange building. The fire caused the death of many people and the loss of many jobs. The fire also caused the city to rebuild its buildings with fireproof materials.
