Dougherty, 2012-01-02 Wine has been described as a window into places cultures and times Geographers have studied wine since the time of the early Greeks and Romans when viticulturalists realized that the same grape grown in different geographic regions produced wine with differing olfactory and taste characteristics This book based on research presented to the Wine Specialty Group of the Association of American Geographers shows just how far the relationship has come since the time of Bacchus and Dionysus Geographers have technical input into the wine industry with exciting new research tackling subjects such as the impact of climate change on grape production to the use of remote sensing and Geographical Information Systems for improving the quality of crops This book explores the interdisciplinary connections and science behind world viticulture Chapters cover a wide range of topics from the way in which landforms and soil affect wine production to the climatic aberration of the Niagara wine industry to the social and structural challenges in reshaping the South African wine industry after the fall of apartheid The fundamentals are detailed too with a comparative analysis of Bordeaux and Burgundy and chapters on the geography of wine and the meaning of the term terroir Encyclopedia of the World's Biomes ,2020-06-26 Encyclopedia of the World s Biomes is a unique five volume reference that provides a global synthesis of biomes including the latest science All of the book s chapters follow a common thematic order that spans biodiversity importance principal anthropogenic stressors and trends changing climatic conditions and conservation strategies for maintaining biomes in an increasingly human dominated world This work is a one stop shop that gives users access to up to date informative articles that go deeper in content than any currently available publication Offers students and researchers a one stop shop for information currently only available in scattered or non technical sources Authored and edited by top scientists in the field Concisely written to guide the reader though the topic Includes meaningful illustrations and suggests further reading for those needing more specific information The Cumulative Book Index ,1905 A world list of books in the English language A Dictionary of the Bible William Smith, John Mee Fuller, 1893 Schools and Informal Learning in a Knowledge-Based World Javier Calvo de Mora, Kerry J. Kennedy, 2019-09-19 This book has two purposes To open up the debate on the role of informal education in schooling systems and to suggest the kind of school organizational environment that can best facilitate the recognition of informal learning Successive chapters explore what is often seen as a duality between informal and formal learning This duality is particularly so because education systems expend so much time and effort in certifying formal knowledge often expressed in school subjects reflecting academic disciplines Recognizing the contribution informal learning can make to young people s understanding and development does not negate the importance of valued social knowledge That complements it Students come to school with knowledge learnt from their families peers the community and both traditional and social media They should not have to unlearn this in order to enter the world of formal learning Rather students different learning worlds should be integrated so that each informs the other In a knowledge based society all learning needs to be valued Some contributors to this book reflect on how new educational systems could be created in a move away from top down authoritarian and bureaucratic management Such open systems are seen to be more welcoming in acknowledging the importance of informal learning Others provide practical examples of how informal learning is currently recognized Some attention is also paid to the evaluation of informal learning A key objective of the work presented here is to stimulate debate about the role of informal learning in knowledge based societies and to stimulate thinking about the kind of reforms needed to create more open and more democratic school learning environments
