Reading and using this book is a must. Haluk Soydan, PhD, School of Social Work, University of Southern California. This book has the potential to change practice in the helping professions. pleasure to read Aron Shlonsky PhD Faculty of Social Work University of Toronto I particularly like the integration of research methods and EBP this is the book s major innovation in my mind as it allows readers to see the connections between research and practice The book also succeeds by taking very complex EBP principles and explaining them in practical terms Jeffrey M Jenson PhD Graduate School of Social Work University of Denver Hands on guidance for research informed practice and practice informed research Now in a second edition Practitioner s Guide to Using Research for Evidence Based Practice offers a clinician oriented approach to appraising and using research as part of the EBP process This accessible guide presents essential and practical guidance on how to integrate research appraisal into EBP endeavors to determine which interventions policies and assessment tools are supported by the best evidence It introduces Increased attention to macro level EBP questions and studies New discussion on defining EBP including the addition of a transdisciplinary model of EBP More detailed guidance on EBP question formulation and conducting Internet searches including the PICO framework New content on multivariate designs including propensity score matching and on mixed model and mixed methods studies

The Minjian Avant-Garde Chang Tan,2024-02-15 The Minjian Avant Garde studies how experimental artists in China mixed with brought changes to and let themselves be transformed by minjian the volatile and diverse public of the post Mao era Departing from the usual emphasis on art institutions global markets or artists communities Chang Tan proposes a new analytical framework in the theories of socially engaged art that stresses the critical agency of participants the affective functions of objects and the versatility of the artists in diverse sociopolitical spheres Drawing from hitherto untapped archival materials and interviews with the artists Tan challenges the views of Chinese artists as either dissidents or conformists to the regime and sees them as navigators and negotiators among diverse political discourses and interests She questions the fetishization of marginalized communities among practitioners of progressive art and politics arguing that the members of minjian are often more complex defiant and savvy than the elites would assume The Minjian Avant Garde critically assesses the rise of populism in both art and politics and show that minjian could constitute either a democratizing or a coercive force This book was published with generous support from the George Dewey and Mary J Krumrine Endowment

Hard Drive Backup David Shipley,2018-03-10 Most space shows on TV have one thing in common the fascination with the search for another habitable planet Scientists know Earth cannot go on forever Resources will run out and mankind will become extinct Relocating to another planet is our only hopebut thats impossible since we dont have the means to get there Even if traveling one tenth the speed of lightwhich

we can't do yet it would take forty three years to get to Proxima Centauri the closest star to our solar system Unless something phenomenal happens in the next million years the knowledge man has spent so much time to attain will be for naught It will be lost when Earth ceases to exist and even if we do survive someplace else eventually that place will cease to exist too What if there was a way to change the tragic course of mankind's demise A brilliant group of individuals will try to discover a way to spread humanity's acquired knowledge into space albeit without human form For eons Earth has been humanity's hard drive saving everything we've learned With the eventual destruction of this hard drive it might be possible for our disembodied intellects to become the hard drive backup but time is running out

Between Montmartre and the Mudd Club Bernard Gendron, 2023-08-31 During the late nineteenth and early twentieth century popular music was considered nothing but vulgar entertainment Today jazz and rock music are seen as forms of art and their practitioners are regularly accorded a status on par with the cultural and political elite To take just one recent example Bono lead singer and lyricist of the rock band U2 got equal and sometimes higher billing than Pope John Paul II on their shared efforts in the Jubilee 2000 debt relief project When and how did popular music earn so much cultural capital To find out Bernard Gendron investigates five key historical moments when popular music and avant garde art transgressed the rigid boundaries separating high and low culture to form friendly alliances He begins at the end of the nineteenth century in Paris's Montmartre district where cabarets showcased popular music alongside poetry readings in spaces decorated with modernist art works Two decades later Parisian poets and musicians slumming in jazz clubs assimilated jazz's aesthetics in their performances and compositions In the bebop revolution in mid 1940s America jazz returned the compliment by absorbing modernist devices and postures in effect transforming itself into an avant garde art form Mid 1960s rock music under the leadership of the Beatles went from being reviled as vulgar music to being acclaimed as a cutting edge art form Finally Gendron takes us to the Mudd Club in the late 1970s where New York punk and new wave rockers were setting the aesthetic agenda for a new generation of artists Between Montmartre and the Mudd Club should be on the shelves of anyone interested in the intersections between high and low culture art and music or history and aesthetics

The Legacy of World War II in European Arthouse Cinema Sam Deighan, 2021-06-11 World War II irrevocably shaped culture and much of cinema in the 20th century thanks to its devastating global impact that changed the way we think about and portray war This book focuses on European war films made about the war between 1945 and 1985 in countries that were occupied or invaded by the Nazis such as Poland France Italy the Soviet Union and Germany itself Many of these films were banned censored or sharply criticized at the time of their release for the radical ways they reframed the war and rejected the mythologizing of war experience as a heroic battle between the forces of good and evil The particular films examined made by arthouse directors like Pier Paolo Pasolini Rainer Werner Fassbinder and Larisa Shepitko among many more deviate from mainstream cinematic depictions of the war and instead present viewpoints and experiences of WWII which are often controversial or transgressive They explore the often complicated ways that participation in war and genocide shapes national identity and the ways that we think about bodies and sexuality trauma violence power justice and personal responsibility themes that continue to resonate throughout culture and global politics British National Cinema Sarah Street, 2003-09-02 The first substantial overview of the British film industry with emphasis on its genres stars and socioeconomic context British National Cinema by Sarah Street is an important title in Routledge's new National Cinemas series British National Cinema synthesizes years of scholarship on British film while incorporating the author's fresh perspective and research Street divides the study of British cinema into four sections the relation between the film industry and government specific film genres movie stars and experimental cinema In addition this beautifully illustrated volume includes over thirty stills from every sphere of British cinema British National Cinema will be of great interest to film students and theorists as well as the general reader interested in the fascinating scope of British film
