Structuring Events Susan Rothstein, 2008-04-15 Structuring Events presents a novel semantic theory of lexical aspect for anyone interested in the study of verb meanings. Provides an introduction to aspectual classes and aspectual distinctions. Utilizes case studies to present a novel semantic theory of lexical aspect and compare it with alternative theories. Useful for students and scholars in semantics and syntax as well as the neighboring fields of pragmatics and philosophy of language.

Event Arguments: Foundations and Applications Claudia Maienborn, Angelika Wöllstein, 2011-12-22 Since entering the stage Davidsonian event arguments have taken on a central role in linguistic theorizing. Recent years have seen a continuous extension of possible applications for them not only in semantics but also in syntax. At the same time questions concerning the ontological status of events have received renewed attention. This collection of articles provides new evidence for the virtually ubiquitous presence of event arguments in linguistic structure and sheds new light on their nature. The volume is organized into four sections: Events states causation, Event nominals, Events in composition, Measuring events.

Frame-Constructional Verb Classes Ryan Dux, 2020-11-15 While verb classes are a mainstay of linguistic research, the field lacks consensus on precisely what constitutes a verb class. This book presents a novel approach to verb classes employing a bottom-up corpus-based methodology and combining key insights from Frame Semantics, Construction Grammar, and Valency Grammar. On this approach, verb classes are formulated at varying granularity levels to adequately capture both the shared semantic and syntactic properties unifying verbs of a class and the idiosyncratic properties unique to individual verbs. In-depth analyses based on this approach shed light on the interrelations between verbs, frame semantics, and constructions and on the semantic richness and network organization of grammatical constructions. This approach is extended to a comparison of Change and Theft verbs, revealing unexpected lexical and syntactic differences across semantically distinct classes. Finally, a range of contrastive German-English analyses demonstrate how verb classes can inform the cross-linguistic comparison of verbs and constructions.

Aspectual Inquiries Paula Kempchinsky, Roumyana Slabakova, 2005-02-14 The study of the linguistic reflexes of aspect has been an active field of research in various sub-disciplines of linguistics such as syntax, semantics, including discourse theory and acquisition studies. However, communication and dissemination of results across these various subfields has often been indirect. This volume solves that problem. The different angles brought together here give us a comprehensive picture of the representation of aspect in the mind/brain of the speaker. The papers in this volume represent the results of a workshop on the syntax semantics and acquisition of aspect held in 2002 whose purpose was to foment active cross-disciplinary communication. A number of the papers examine the syntactic representation of lexical or situation aspect while others focus on the syntactic interaction of lexical aspect with grammatical aspect and of grammatical aspect and tense. Other papers examine the role of aspect in discourse representations while a third group of papers reports on results of empirical studies on the acquisition of aspect in both first and second language acquisition and patterns of loss of morphosyntactic reflexes of aspect in language attrition This volume is of interest to researchers and advanced graduate students in syntax semantics discourse representation and language acquisition particularly those working on tense and aspect Student Organizational Templates Stella Tartsinis,2025-01-30

Transitivity Alternations in Diachrony Nikolaos Lavidas, 2009-12-14 his book offers a new approach to the theory of change in argument structure and voice morphology It investigates the diachrony of transitivity and especially the changes in causative verbs and transitivity alternations based on data mainly from the Greek and English diachrony all historical data are transcribed and accompanied by glosses and translations into Modern English Data from earlier periods provide new information on burning questions in both Historical and Theoretical Linguistics The study shows that a causativisations are the result of reanalysis of intransitive verbs as transitive on the basis of the linguistic cue of Case b the changes in voice morphology do not depend on the derivation and direction of new transitivity alternations Finally the study demonstrates that the generalisation that guides the changes in voice demands morphological differentiation of the anticausative from the passive types
