The Time Machine Hypothesis Damien Broderick, 2019-07-12 Every age has characteristic inventions that change the world. In the 19th century, it was the steam engine and the train. For the 20th, electric and gasoline power, aircraft, nuclear weapons, even ventures into space. Today, the planet is awash with electronic business chatter and virtual reality entertainment, so brilliant that the division between real and simulated is hard.

to discern But one new idea from the 19th century has failed so far to enter reality time travel using machines to turn the time dimension into a two way highway Will it come true as foreseen in science fiction Might we expect visits to and from the future sooner than from space That is the Time Machine Hypothesis examined here by futurist Damien Broderick an award winning writer and theorist of the genre of the future Broderick homes in on the topic through the lens of science as well as fiction exploring some fifty different time travel scenarios and conundrums found in the science fiction literature and film

Diseases and Disorders in Contemporary Fiction James Peacock,Tim Lustig,2013-04-17 The essays in this collection address the current preoccupation with neurological conditions and disorders in contemporary literature by British and American writers The book places these fictional treatments within a broader cultural and historical context exploring such topics as the two cultures debate the neurological turn postmodernism and the post postmodern and responses to September 11th Considering a variety of materials including mainstream literary fiction the graphic novel popular fiction autobiographical writing film and television contributors consider the contemporary dimensions of the interface between the sciences and humanities developing the debate about the post postmodern as a new humanism or a return to realism and investigating questions of form and genre and of literary continuities and discontinuities Further the essays discuss contemporary writers attempts to engage the relation between the individual and the social looking at the relation between the syndrome syndrome referring to the prevalence in contemporary literature of neurological phenomena evident at the biological level and existing work in the field of trauma studies where explanations tend to have taken a psychoanalytical form allowing for perspectives that question some of the assumptions that have marked both these fields The current literary preoccupation with neurological conditions presents us with a new and distinctive form of trauma literature one concerned less with psychoanalysis than with the physical and evolutionary status of human beings
