Rethinking Youth Wellbeing Critical Perspectives:

Rethinking Youth Wellbeing Katie Wright, Julie McLeod, 2014-11-01 This volume offers a critical rethinking of the construct of youth wellbeing stepping back from taken for granted and psychologically inflected understandings Wellbeing has become a catchphrase in educational health and social care policies internationally informing a range of school programs and social interventions and increasingly shaping everyday understandings of young people Drawing on research by established and emerging scholars in Australia Singapore and the UK the book critically examines the myriad effects of dominant discourses of wellbeing on the one hand and the social and cultural dimensions of wellbeing on the other From diverse methodological and theoretical perspectives it explores how notions of wellbeing have been mobilized across time and space in and out of school contexts and the different inflections and effects of wellbeing discourses are having in education transnationally and comparatively The book offers researchers as well as practitioners new perspectives on current approaches to student wellbeing in schools and novel ways of thinking about the wellbeing of young people beyond educational settings

Families, Young People, Physical Activity and Health Symeon Dagkas, Lisette Burrows, 2016-05-05 The family is an important site for the transmission of knowledge and cultural values Amidst claims that young people are failing to follow health advice dropping out of sport and at risk of an ever expanding list of lifestyle diseases families have become the target of government interventions This book is the first to offer critical sociological perspectives on how families do and do not function as a pedagogical site for health education sport and physical activity practices This book focuses on the importance of families as sites of pedagogical work across a range of cultural and geographical contexts It explores the relationships between families education health physical activity and sport and also offers reflections on the methodological and ethical issues arising from this research Its chapters discuss key questions such as how active living messages are taken up in families how parents perceive the role of education physical activity and sport how culture gender religion and social class shape engagement in sport how family pedagogies may influence health education sport and physical activity now and in the future This book is essential reading for anyone with an interest in health physical education health education family studies sport pedagogy or the sociology of sport and exercise

Enhancing Student Education Transitions and Employability Thanh Pham, Behnam Soltani, 2021-04-08 This book explores student education transition and employability negotiation experiences in various contexts It explores determinants of student transitions at three levels including macro meso and micro but focuses on exploring affordances constraints and strategies at the micro level The framework underpinning the explorations at the micro level covers a range of different forms of capital including human culture social identity psychological and agentic The book is unique in three ways First it consists of chapters about critical discussion empirical research and practical guidance about student transition experiences The critical discussion and empirical research chapters explore and obtain insights about the complexity of student transitions and develop conceptual frameworks that guide the development of applicable practices The book is therefore a useful resource for policy makers institutions academics professionals and students Second it provides insights about how student transitions are determined by a range of factors at different levels These insights extend discussions about student transitions in the current literature which have mainly explored impacts of policies institutional programmes and human capital Finally it is international in focus because it draws on research with different cohorts of students and graduates in different contexts Insights provided in the book are therefore rich diverse and comparative

Students' Experiences of Psychosocial Problems in Higher Education

Trine Wulf-Andersen, Lene Larsen, Annie Aarup Jensen, Lone Krogh, Aske Basselbjerg Stigemo, Mathias Hulgård

Kristiansen, 2022-08-19 Around the world students in higher education suffer from and deal with psychosocial problems This phenomenon is universal and seems to be increasing A vast number of students enter higher education with problems like stress anxiety or depression or develop them during their student lives due to for example loneliness family crisis mental health or study environment issues Battling belonging and recognition are the focal points of this book's analyses showing how students faced with psychosocial problems experience high degrees of stigma and exclusion in the academic communities and society as such The book is based on research situated in a welfare society Denmark where students have relatively easy access to higher education and to public support for education as well as special support for students with psychosocial problems Taking a student perspective the book provides in depth qualitative analyses of what characterizes student life which specific psychosocial and other problems students experience how problems are constructed represented and become significant in relation to studying and not least how students deal with them It will be of great interest to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the fields of educational psychology sociology of education and higher education It will also be of interest to supervisors and administrators in higher education

Poststructural Policy

Analysis Carol Bacchi, Susan Goodwin, 2025-08-12 This book offers a distinctive approach to policy analysis and a refreshing and politically engaged way of thinking about policy It clearly articulates a Foucault influenced poststructural perspective on policy and policy analysis for researchers students and policy makers As a guide to practice the book introduces a critical analytical approach to policy analysis called What's the Problem Represented to be WPR Instead of treating policy as simply the government's best efforts to address problems this analytic strategy highlights how policies produce problems as particular sorts of problem and how governing takes place through these problematisations First published in 2016 the book describes the conceptual and theoretical underpinnings of the WPR approach to policy analysis in a detailed and accessible manner It features examples of application of the approach with topics as diverse as obesity economic policy migration drug and alcohol policy and gender equality In this second edition the authors centralise a complementary analytic strategy for poststructural policy analysis poststructural interview analysis PIA This edition integrates this material as a new chapter which sets out PIA as a novel approach to poststructural interview analysis and includes examples of PIA applications The new chapter provides excellent guidance to undertake interview analysis in a manner congruent with the poststructural precepts set out in the book School Counselling in East and South-East Asia Mark G. Gender Homicide and the Politics of Responsibility explores the competing and contradictory understandings of violence against women and men's responsibility. It situates these within the personal and political intersections of neoliberal and postfeminist imperatives of individualisation, choice and empowerment. As violence against women has become a national and international policy priority, feminist concerns about violence against women and men's responsibility have entered the mainstream, only to be articulated in politically contradictory ways. This book explores themes of responsibility for violence and the social and legal consequences that men and women uniquely or differently encounter. By drawing on high profile cases of homicide, an extensive literature on feminist perspectives on violence and compelling focus group discussions, the book examines the politicised claims regarding the responsibility of men and women as both victims and offenders in intimate relationships. Deploying a range of interdisciplinary approaches, it utilises a blend of cultural theory and psychosocial analysis to offer an account of the infiltration of postfeminist and neoliberal sensibilities of individualism and responsibilisation in the social, legal and interpersonal imaginary. The book makes contributions to several fields such as the current public policy initiatives to hold men accountable for violence against women, understanding public attitudes to violence against women and contextualising the challenges faced by a number of feminist reforms that seek to address these issues. An accessible and compelling read, Gender Homicide and the Politics of Responsibility will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, sociology, gender studies and those interested in understanding the debates surrounding violence against women, violence by women and the social construction of responsibility and responsibilisation.
