Retirement is a time of life that has grown ever longer in the developed world, and the number of pensioners has increased accordingly, questioning the strength of Social Security systems and the social safety net in general. Financial Planning for Retirement (FPR) consists of the series of activities involved in the accumulation of wealth to cover needs in the post-retirement stage of life. The negative short-, mid-, and long-term consequences of inadequate Financial Planning for Retirement do not only affect individuals, but also their extended families, homes, eventually producing an unwanted impact on the entire society. The Capacity-Willingness-Opportunity Model has been proposed to understand FPR, combined with Intentional Change Theory, a framework for understanding the process, antecedents and consequences of FPR. From this perspective, we propose this promising model, but there are a large number of variables that have not been included that offer novel ways to deepen our understanding of FPR. A focus on each dimension of the model, the role of age and psychosocial variables associated with demographic indicators such as gender, health status, and migration, allow us to provide a proposal of scientific advancement of FPR.

FINANCIAL PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT: A PSYCHOSOCIAL PERSPECTIVE

From a societal standpoint, population aging in the developed countries has intensified pressure on public pension systems (Annink et al., 2016). It now seems clear that society will not be able to guarantee quality of life in retirement unless people save on their own behalf including private (i.e., corporate) pensions leading governments to adopt increasingly active policies designed to involve citizens in Financial Planning for Retirement (FPR). FPR consists of the series of activities involved in the accumulation of wealth to cover needs in the post-retirement stage of life. It is necessary because of the high, mid- and long-term, negative impact of poor planning (Choi and Jang, 2016; Ekici and Koydemir, 2016). At the same time, this activity is complex for several reasons. Firstly, most people do not possess the necessary knowledge to make optimal savings and investment decisions. Secondly, individual planning is subject to many factors, such as income, professional career, or health, which, moreover, interact with each other. Thirdly, people may experience anxiety and develop negative attitudes toward contemplating the latter stages of life and planning, ultimately avoiding FPR.

FPR was initially treated as a matter exclusively for economists, accountants and financial advisors. More recently, economists have found “a set of coherent explanatory constructs” useful to understand economic behavior (García-Gallego et al., 2017, p. 848) in psychological concepts. At the same time, in psychology, the importance of finances in retirement was admitted (Topa et al., 2011). Academics have progressively incorporated variables from other disciplines in their

Popularity: A Bridge between Classical and Behavioral Finance Roger G. Ibbotson, Thomas M. Idzorek, Paul D. Kaplan, James X. Xiong, 2018 Classical and behavioral finance are often seen as being at odds but the idea of popularity has been introduced as a way of reconciling the two approaches Investors like or dislike various characteristics of securities for rational reasons as in classical finance or irrational reasons as in behavioral finance which makes the assets popular or unpopular In the capital markets popular unpopular securities trade at prices that are higher lower than they would be otherwise hence the shares may provide lower higher expected returns This book builds on this idea and expands it in two major ways First it introduces a rigorous asset pricing model the popularity asset pricing model PAPM which adds investor preferences for security characteristics other than the risk and expected return that are part of the capital asset pricing model A major conclusion of the PAPM is that the expected return of any security is a linear function of not only its systematic risk beta but also of all security characteristics that investors care about The other major contribution of the book is new empirical work that while confirming the well known premiums such as size value and liquidity in a popularity context supports the popularity hypothesis on the basis of portfolios of stocks based on such characteristics as brand value sustainable competitive advantage and reputation Popularity unifies the factors that affect price in classical finance with those that drive price in behavioral finance thus creating a unifying theory or bridge between classical and behavioral finance Research in Education ,1972 Proceedings of the 11th International Conference on Business, Accounting, Finance and Economics (BAFE 2023) Yuen Onn Choong,Fanyu Chen,Keng Soon William Choo,Voon Hsien Lee,Chooi Yi Wei,2023-12-29 This is an open access book The Faculty of Business and Finance Universiti Tunku Abdul Rahman UTAR is pleased to organize the 11th International Conference on Business Accounting Finance and Economics BAFE 2023 on 25th October 2023 in hybrid mode via Online meeting with Zoom platform and physical mode at UTAR Kampar Campus This conference aims to bring together researchers to present up to date works that contribute to new theoretical methodological and empirical knowledge Personnel Literature ,1984
