exploration of semiconductor supply chain localization offering insights into the formulation of effective strategies and ways to enhance the competitiveness and sustainability of semiconductor manufacturers through supply chain localization The semiconductor industry is currently witnessing a significant localization wave with a growing trend of wafer foundries relocating their production capacity closer to chip designers This shift is primarily driven by factors such as the US China trade war geopolitical considerations the impact of Covid 19 the Russia Ukraine conflict and the increasing importance of environmental awareness By localizing semiconductor supply chains companies can effectively address these challenges while also improving their competitive edge and ensuring long term sustainability in the face of political and war risks However achieving supply chain localization in the semiconductor industry is a complex endeavor as traditional factors considered in semiconductor supply chain management may no longer be decisive Moreover existing research on the subject is often scattered across various journal issues and conference proceedings necessitating a systematic integration of these findings Furthermore most of the available supply chain management related books do not specifically focus on this topic This book aims to bridge these gaps by providing a comprehensive resource that combines relevant references real world cases and supporting evidence
