Directory, San Jose, California, City and Suburban* ,2009 The Tao of Writing Sheila Nickerson,1985 Creative Writing like Tao can be the way with a heart Viewed as a psychotechnology and not as a skill writing can serve as a channel to self transcendence the process begins when the writer in stillness observes the physical world As s/he connects with that world the distractions of self and ego drop away the writer becomes one with all there is achieving what Maslow has termed a peak experience the words used to capture that experience become the experience itself the poem therefore is not about something but is the thing itself Nothing stands between the reader and the experience If there is to be a poem primary creativeness or raw writing must precede secondary creativeness or revision If primary creativeness is to be nurtured writing must be seen as process rather than product Writing as process is a journey of self discovery the products that result are markers on that journey As such writing products are the threshold of literature the starting place to get going on that journey one can gain confidence in writing through a series of exercises based on free association and triggering techniques These techniques break down barriers between spoken and written expression Through writing one discovers himself or herself and what the personal journey is the writer teacher can accompany students along the way lending encouragement but the journey must be alone It is a journey that begins in silence and finally ends in silence at the point where words have led to inner knowing and recognition of the true self     The Way of the Writer Charles Johnson, 2016-12-06 From Charles Johnson a National Book Award winner Professor Emeritus at University of Washington and one of America s preeminent scholars on literature and race comes an instructive inspiring guide to the craft and art of writing An award winning novelist philosopher essayist screenwriter professor and cartoonist Charles Johnson has devoted his life to creative pursuit His 1990 National Book Award winning novel Middle Passage is a modern classic revered as much for its daring plot as its philosophical underpinnings For thirty three years Johnson taught and mentored students in the art and craft of creative writing The Way of the Writer is his record of those years and the coda to a kaleidoscopic boundary shattering career Organized into six accessible easy to navigate sections The Way of the Writer is both a literary reflection on the creative impulse and a utilitarian guide to the writing process Johnson shares his lessons and exercises from the classroom starting with word choice sentence structure and narrative voice and delving into the mechanics of scene dialogue plot and storytelling before exploring the larger questions at stake for the serious writer What separates literature from industrial fiction What lies at the heart of the creative impulse How does one navigate the literary world And how are philosophy and fiction concomitant Luminous inspiring and imminently accessible The Way of the Writer is a revelatory glimpse into the mind of the writer and an essential guide for anyone with a story to tell
