The Words Without The Music:

Words Without Music J.P. Polidoro, 2018-09-27 Life's experiences often take the form of music poetry novels or prose J P Polidoro a New Hampshire novelist songwriter and poet has compiled within decades of verses that were intended to be inspiration for or lyrics for songs reflections of life and verses that by themselves stand alone In Words Without Music Polidoro takes the reader on a visionary lyrical ride of love love lost often with personal elegies odes using nature's beauty as metaphors of life's experiences both euphoric and tragic The thoughts penned within are poems and prose that are often autobiographical but universal in nature His lyrical creations over decades paint a picture in one's mind without need of the artist's brush or support from a melody Polidoro purposely offers no table of contents so that the reader may open the book to any page and enjoy the compositions individually or in total at one's leisure much akin to an individual song Readers may identify with his past and present emotions and his critical thinking of the day especially in a world that is ever changing

Redeeming Sociology Vern S. Poythress, 2011-05-04

Interpersonal relationships are possible for humans because we are created in the image of a Trinitarian God But if the Trinity is our model for relationships why is the human condition rife with pain and evil How are we to think correctly about fallen human relationships and our models for understanding them Redeeming Sociology advocates a biblically informed model for human relationships relationships rooted in the Trinitarian character of God his governance of the world and his redemption accomplished in Christ Poythress examines how the breaking of relationships through sin leads to strife murder and oppression among human beings and sets cultures against one another And he shows how these broken relationships are restored through the outworking of redemption in Christ Though typical sociological models for interpersonal relationships may offer some valuable insights they are handicapped by a fundamental misunderstanding of humanity The biblical model that Poythress presents correctly diagnoses the problem of human relationships so it can likewise prescribe a biblical solution that infuses new meaning and power into how we relate to others made in the image of God

Anatomy of Sound Jacob Smith, Neil Verma, 2016-06-28 This collection examines the work of Norman Corwin one of the most important yet understudied media authors of all time as a critical lens to view the history of multimedia authorship and sound production Known as the poet laureate of radio Corwin is most famous for his radio dramas which reached millions of listeners around the world and contributed to radio's success as a mass media form in the 1930s and 1940s. But Corwin was also a pioneer in other fields including cinema, theater, TV, and journalism. In each of these areas he had a distinctive approach to soundwork, relying on inventive prerecorded and live-in-real-time atmospheric effects in the studio among other aesthetic techniques. Exploring the range of Corwin's work from his World War II era poetry and his special projects for the United Nations to his path-breaking writing for film and television and its influence on media today, these essays underscore the political and social impact of Corwin's oeuvre and cement his reputation as a key writer in the history of many sound media.

Judaism's Theological Voice Jacob Neusner, 1995-05 Distinguished historian of Judaism, Jacob Neusner here ventures for the first time into constructive theology. Taking the everyday life of contemporary Judaism as his beginning, Neusner asks: when in the life of the living faith of the Torah does Israel, the holy community, meet God? Where does the meeting take place? What is the medium of the encounter? In his attempt to answer these questions, Neusner sets forth the character and the form of the Torah as sung theology. Israel, the holy community, meets God in the synagogue while at prayer and in the yeshiva when studying the Torah at the moment in each setting when the Torah is received. In both circumstances, people do not read but sing out its words. With the written part of the Torah sung in the synagogue and the oral part declaimed in centers of sacred learning, music provides the medium for Judaism's theological voice. Neusner identifies a reciprocal exchange between the holy community, Israel, and God. Israel sings to God when the Torah is studied, and God sings to Israel when the Torah is declaimed. Through the metaphor of music, Neusner offers an account of how he believes those faithful to the Torah meet God in the Torah and how they should listen to the melody of God's self-revelation. The result is an original theological reflection that will interest all students of Judaism.

Lyrics on Several Occasions Ira Gershwin, 1997 One of the most distinguished lyric writers of his time, Ira Gershwin wrote for his brother George as well as Jerome Kern, Kurt Weill, Harold Arlen, and others. Limelight presents a selection of stage and screen lyrics written for sundry situations and now arranged in arbitrary categories to which have been added many informative annotations and discussions on their why and wherefore, their whom, their how, and matters associative. Gershwin's comments are witty and irreverent, and his anecdotes about the making of many favorites are invariably interesting and frequently surprising. Chicago Tribune.
