Metamorphic Rocks

Metamorphic rocks are formed from pre-existing rocks (igneous, sedimentary, or metamorphic) through the process of metamorphism. This process involves changes in temperature, pressure, and chemical environment, which cause the minerals in the rock to recrystallize and form new minerals.

Metamorphic rocks are classified based on their texture and color. The texture of a metamorphic rock is determined by the size and shape of its mineral grains. The color of a metamorphic rock is determined by the presence of certain minerals, such as iron and magnesium.

Metamorphic rocks are found in a variety of settings, including mountain ranges, plateaus, and basins. They are often found in association with igneous and sedimentary rocks.
