Spaces of the Cinematic Home Eleanor Andrews, Stella Hockenhull, Fran Pheasant-Kelly, 2015-07-24. This book examines the ways in which the house appears in films and the modes by which it moves beyond being merely a backdrop for action. Specifically it explores the ways that domestic spaces carry inherent connotations that filmmakers exploit to enhance meanings and pleasures within film. Rather than simply examining the representation of the house as national symbol, auteur trait or in terms of genre, contributors study various rooms in the domestic sphere from an assortment of time periods and from a diversity of national cinemas from interior spaces in ancient Rome to the Chinese kitchen from the animated house to the metaphor of the armchair in film noir.

The Korean Wave Youna Kim, 2013-11-12. Since the late 1990s South Korea has emerged as a new center for the production of transnational popular culture, the first instance of a major global circulation of Korean popular culture in history. Why popular or not? Why now? What does it mean socially, culturally and politically in a global context? This edited collection considers the Korean Wave in a global digital age and addresses the social, cultural and political implications in their complexity and paradox within the contexts of global inequalities and uneven power structures. The emerging consequences at multiple levels, both macro structures and micro processes that influence media production, distribution, representation and consumption, deserve to be analyzed and explored fully in an increasingly global media environment. This book argues for the Korean Wave's double capacity in the creation of new and complex spaces of identity that are both enabling and disabling cultural diversity in a digital cosmopolitan world. The Korean Wave combines theoretical perspectives with grounded case studies in an up to date and accessible volume ideal for both undergraduate and postgraduate students of Media and Communications, Cultural Studies, Korean Studies and Asian Studies.
