The Research Journey Sharon F. Rallis, Gretchen B. Rossman, 2012-04-02 Designed to foster inquiry mindedness this book prepares graduate students to develop a conceptual framework and conduct inquiry projects that are linked to ongoing conversations in a field. The authors examine different ways of knowing and show how to identify a research question, build arguments and support them with evidence, make informed design decisions, engage in reflective ethical practices and produce a written proposal or report. Each chapter opens with a set of critical questions followed by a dialogue among five fictional graduate students exploring questions and concerns about their own inquiry projects; these issues are revisited throughout the chapter. Other useful features include end of chapter learning activities for individual or group use. Useful pedagogical features include Framing questions for exploration and reflection, Chapter opening dialogues that bring in perspectives from multiple disciplines, Example boxes with detailed cases and questions for the reader, End of chapter activities and experiential exercises that guide readers to develop their own inquiry projects, Suggestions for further reading.

100 Activities for Teaching Research Methods Catherine Dawson, 2016-08-08. A sourcebook of exercises, games, scenarios and role plays, this practical, user-friendly guide provides a complete and valuable resource for research methods tutors, teachers and lecturers. Developed to complement and enhance existing course materials, the 100 ready-to-use activities encourage innovative and engaging classroom practice in seven areas: finding and using sources of information, planning a research project, conducting research, using and analyzing data, disseminating results, acting ethically, and developing deeper research skills. Each of the activities is divided into a section on tutor notes and student handouts. Tutor notes contain clear guidance about the purpose, level and type of activity, along with a range of discussion notes that signpost key issues and research insights. Important terms, related activities and further reading suggestions are also included. Not only does the A4 format make the student handouts easy to photocopy, they are also available to download and print directly from the book's companion website for easy distribution in class.

Map Librarianship Susan Elizabeth Ward Aber, Jeremy Aber, 2016-11-04. Map Librarianship identifies basic geoliteracy concepts and enhances reference and instruction skills by providing details on finding, downloading, delivering and assessing maps, remotely sensed imagery and other geospatial resources and services, primarily from trusted government sources. By offering descriptions of traditional maps, geographic information systems, GIS, remote sensing and other geospatial technologies, the book provides a timely and practical guide for the map and geospatial librarian to blend confidence in traditional library skill sets. Includes rarely discussed concepts of citing and referencing maps and geospatial data, fair use and copyright. Creates an awareness and appreciation of existing print map collections while building digital stewardship with surrogate map and aerial imagery collections. Provides an introduction to the theory and applications of GIS, remote sensing, participatory neogeography and neocartography practices and other geospatial technologies. Includes a list of geospatial resources with descriptions and illustrations of commonly used map types and formats, online geospatial data sources and an introduction to the most commonly used geospatial software packages available on both desktop and mobile platforms.

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business

III Richard G. Milter, John E. Stinson, Wim H. Gijssels, 2013-03-09 Almost thirty years ago a friend involved in the education profession told me that in his estimation much more was caught by students outside of classrooms than was taught within those hallowed walls This statement has stuck with me through years of personal schooling working as a high school teacher working in management serving as a management consultant and trainer and facilitating learning on university campuses across the US eastern Europe and Asia Learning by doing is certainly something most people have experienced But the fact that there is more opportunity to learn more things today as never before with knowledge doubling every 20 months makes learning by doing more complicated As organizations move to respond to the rapid changes in their environments people within those organizations must face the uncertainty and ambiguity that comes with such conditions The one thing most futurists agree on is that the future will be very different than the present Exponential change has become commonplace Companies used to worry about redefining their goals and specific describing their place in an industry Today in order to survive they must be constantly addressing the issues inherent in redefining their industries
