Personalising Learning in the Primary Classroom Dr Elaine Wilmot, 2006-10-09 Personalising learning is the hot topic on the government's education agenda It is seen to be the way forward to get the very best out of every child and it forms the focus of this timely new book by Crown House Publishing Personalising Learning in the Primary Classroom will Challenge the schools thinking about how they teach Encourage schools to put the learner at the heart of the educational agenda Support primary schools in their work to meet this challenge Consider all aspects of learning and teaching in the primary school and Provide useful questions for the reader to consider their own working practices in the context of personalising learning Personalising learning is seen as a powerful solution to reforming our current education system in order to meet individual learning needs and thereby raise standards Where current thinking has personalising learning in the secondary sector the author argues that for personalising learning to be successful children must start making real choices about their learning from the earliest age and must be guided and coached through their primary years rather than being taught in the traditional way She argues that the curriculum should be made to fit the child rather than the child being pushed through the sausage factory education systems as it currently stands The book is packed with practical ideas that have been tried and tested in a real school and have proved popular with staff parents and pupils and Ofsted It considers all aspects of learning and teaching in the primary school and provides useful questions for the reader to consider their own working practices in the context of personalising learning

Earl, Helen Timperley, 2008-02-29 This is the first book in the series Professional Learning and Development in Schools and Higher Education is edited by two experienced committed and skilled educationists from different parts of the world but with converging values and viewpoints The result is a rich mix of authors from the USA Australia South Africa Canada and New Zealand all of whom focus on the use of evidence informed decision making in schools and classrooms This focus makes for an unusual collection which acts as an antidote to change agendas which are entirely results driven The book provides evidence from a variety of countries of how system leaders teachers in schools and higher education must now manage as part of their endeavours to provide the best possible learning and achievement opportunities for all students What makes this book unique is its engagement with the realities of the challenge of evidence informed conversations which all too quickly become activity traps as teachers are steered away from evidence towards adopting short term pragmatic or ideological solutions which suit the policy agendas of reformists from outside schools and more often than not fail to result in real changes in teaching and learning
