Lee, 2022-06-24 This contributed volume focuses on understanding the educational strengths and weaknesses of mediated content including media as a learning supplement in comparison to traditional face to face learning Each chapter includes research on and a broad brush summary of approaches to combining life sciences education with educational technologies The chapters are organized into four main sections each of which focuses on a key question regarding the consequences of incorporating media into education In this regard the authors highlight how educational technology is both a bridge and barrier to student access and inclusivity Further they address the ongoing discussion as to whether students need to be present for lectures and on how having agency in their own learning can improve both retention and conceptual understanding To link the content to current events the authors also shed light on the impact that the COVID 19 pandemic is having on the continuity of educational programs and on the growing importance of educational technologies Consequently the book offers life science educators valuable guidance on the technologies already available and an outlook on what is yet to come Private Tutoring Across the Mediterranean Mark Bray, André E. Mazawi, Ronald G. Sultana, 2013-09-03 Private tutoring supplementary out of school instruction offered at a fee to individuals or groups represents a substantial household expenditure even in systems that claim to have free public education It plays out across alongside and even within some school systems Emerging as a shadow education private tutoring now operates as a system and industry crossing national regional and social class boundaries Private tutoring is provided through different modes of delivery including the internet Policy makers parents teachers trade unions corporations community associations and students are implicated in the private tutoring industry The debates over private tutoring are therefore part of the larger struggles over the ends of education in just and equitable societies The authors in this volume address diverse national settings of private tutoring across the Mediterranean and examine its political economic social and cultural underpinnings They draw on a range of conceptual frameworks and deploy a variety of research methods to problematize the multifaceted relationships between tutoring learning and equity The volume captures a multiplicity of voices and focuses on some of the central challenges facing education in pluralistic societies
