What Is the Role of Learning and Multisensory Interactions? Guillaume Andéol,Brian D. Simpson,Ewan A. Macpherson,2016-08-29 Spatial hearing ability has been found to vary widely across listeners A survey of the existing auditory space perception literature suggests that three main types of factors may account for this variability physical factors e.g. acoustical characteristics related to sound localization cues perceptual factors e.g. sensory cognitive processing perceptual learning multisensory interactions and methodological factors e.g. differences in stimulus presentation methods across studies However the extent to which these and perhaps other still unidentified factors actually contribute to the observed variability in spatial hearing across individuals with normal hearing or within special populations e.g. hearing impaired listeners remains largely unknown. Likewise, the role of perceptual learning and multisensory interactions in the emergence of a multimodal but unified representation of auditory space is still an active topic of research. A better characterization and understanding of the determinants of inter-individual variability in spatial hearing and of its relationship with perceptual learning and multisensory interactions would have numerous benefits. In particular, it would enhance the design of rehabilitative devices and of human-machine interfaces involving auditory or multimodal space perception such as virtual auditory multimodal displays in aeronautics or navigational aids for the visually impaired. For this Research Topic, we have considered manuscripts that present new methods or review existing methods for the study of inter-individual differences, present new data or review existing data concerning acoustical features relevant for explaining inter-individual differences in sound localization performance, present new or review existing psychophysical or neurophysiological findings concerning spatial hearing and/or auditory perceptual learning and/or multisensory interactions in humans, normal or impaired, young or older listeners or other species, discuss the influence of inter-individual differences on the design and use of assistive listening devices, rehabilitation or human-machine interfaces involving spatial hearing or multimodal perception of space, ergonomics.

Coastal Risk: Shores and Deltas in Peril Clara Armaroli, Derek W. T. Jackson, Denise Reed, Christophe Viavattene, 2020-01-30. The interaction between land and sea is controlled by a number of processes that are in general driven by the equilibrium between environmental forcing components, e.g. hydrodynamic waves, currents, surges, atmospheric, e.g. winds, and terrestrial, e.g. catchment land cover and sediment dynamics. In the context of the Anthropocene epoch, the equilibrium in many coastal regions is now often altered by the influence of human activities. Successive human activities globally influence indirectly these forcing components, helping magnify the negative impact of extreme meteorological events and sea level rise. Directly, human activity can also influence a number of processes at a local scale within and between the catchment, the sea and the coast. For example, misplaced engineered infrastructure inside these naturally dynamic environments can accentuate disequilibrium, destabilizing shores and deltas. Development in catchments can promote rapid runoff, inducing sometimes dramatic effects on downstream urbanized areas, the socio-economy as well as on coastal resources and ecosystems. This Research Topic aims to assemble research and review papers that focus on the dynamics of shores and deltas in peril under present conditions as well as in the future context of sea level rise climate change and adaptation strategies under various scenarios Mediations of Social Life in the 21st Century Harry F.
