The Oxford Handbook of Administrative Justice Marc Hertogh, Richard Kirkham, Robert Thomas, Joe Tomlinson, 2022 The core animating feature of administrative justice scholarship is the desire to understand how justice is achieved through the delivery of public services and the actions inactions and decision making of administrative bodies The study of administrative justice also encompasses the redress systems by which people can challenge administrative bodies to seek the correction of injustices For a long time now scholars have been interested in administrative justice but without necessarily framing their work as such Rather than existing under the rubric of administrative justice much of the research undertaken has existed within sub categories of disciplines such as law sociology public policy politics and public administration Consequently although aspects of the topic have attracted rich contributions across such disciplines administrative justice has rarely been studied or taught in a manner that integrates these areas of research more systematically This Handbook signals a major change of approach Drawing together a group of world leading scholars of administrative justice from a range of disciplines The Oxford Handbook of Administrative Justice shows how administrative justice is a vibrant complex and contested field that is best understood as an area of inquiry in its own right rather than through traditional disciplinary silos

Neuroprotection in Brain Hypoxia Matilde Otero-Losada, Francisco G. Wandosell, Luis Miguel Garcia-Segura, Francisco Capani, 2019-08-30 Despite compelling preclinical evidence from laboratory models of brain hypoxia suggesting potential neuroprotective strategies only scattered data are available from clinical studies A few candidate neuroprotectants have been studied regarding antioxidant antiapoptotic anti excitotoxic immunomodulatory and neurotrophic effects In parallel with clinical innovations preclinical research initiatives are also identifying new animal models more closely resembling the clinical course and pathology of neurodegenerative diseases Clarifying the specific mission of the brain cells involved in the damage repair system in the examined animal models is important to define new therapeutic targets Following hypoxic damage detrimental events intermingle with the repairing events in both time and cellular dependent fashion Identifying reliable post hypoxia brain markers is mandatory to develop potential therapeutic interventions improving translational research from the experimental observations to the clinical application A deeper understanding of the precise participation of neurons glia and endothelial cells is expected to offer more clues for designing new therapeutic strategies to reduce the current gap among the experimental and the clinical data One of the main issues should be to study the epigenetic mechanism of neuroprotective agents and their action on the genetic modification induced by hypoxia Achieving this goal is presumed critical to obtain more conclusive results in patients that by now do not receive appropriate therapy for mitigating the several diseases generated by brain hypoxia Although a few ongoing studies are evaluating interesting approaches future research is necessary to come to a novel mechanism of neuroprotection This book encompasses different chapters conveying the goals and aims of the pertaining research Handbook of Childhood Behavioral Issues Thomas P.
