An Improved

Foundation for the Investigation and Treatment of Gastric Dysrhythmia [PhD Thesis] Gregory O'Grady,2012 Gastric motility disorders remain a complex clinical challenge and inflict a substantial burden of cost and suffering on society Gastric contractions are coordinated by an underlying electrical activity and gastric dysrhythmias are implicated in the pathophysiology of several motility disorders However the significance of dysrhythmias remains uncertain and there are few elective therapies because current tools to investigate dysrhythmias have low reliability owing to their lack of spatial resolution This thesis aimed to develop an improved foundation for the investigation and management of gastric dysrhythmia by advancing and translating high resolution HR multi electrode spatiotemporal mapping The research is a cross disciplinary program of bioengineering and basic and clinical electrophysiology A range of HR mapping devices are first developed and validated for intra operative gastric mapping including at open and laparoscopic surgery Automated signal processing tools are next validated for the efficient reliable marking grouping and mapping of slow wave events and these tools are integrated into an intuitive software platform These methodological advances are then applied in a series of experimental studies The origin and propagation of porcine gastric slow wave activity is defined followed by clinical translation with the first spatiotemporal analysis of normal human gastric slow wave propagation The methods are then applied to define new patterns and mechanisms of gastric dysrhythmia initially in a porcine model including the first demonstration of how rapid high amplitude circumferential propagation emerges during dysrhythmias The first clinical study applying HR electrical mapping is then presented performed on a cohort of patients with diabetic and idiopathic gastroparesis revealing new patterns of human dysrhythmia A new classification scheme for abnormalities of human gastric slow wave initiation and conduction is proposed Finally the evidence for high frequency gastric electrical stimulation is reviewed prior to the presentation of a new entrainment mapping method for better assessing gastric pacing protocols In total this work constitutes a coordinated series of advances that offer a strengthened foundation for investigating and managing gastric electrical abnormalities It is hoped that these new methods and findings will translate into future clinical advances to improve the diagnosis and treatment of these complex patient populations Democracy at a Crossroads Gregory L. Samuels, Amy Samuels, 2019-06-01 At a time of questionable civility in American politics democratic education appears to be at a crossroads As we consider how to best explore democracy and foster a more civically engaged populace in the current socio political context it is critical to examine what frames our educational systems policies and practices and shapes our civic identity While teachers struggle with decreased instructional time for social studies and the demands of standardized tests the social sciences are often pushed to the margins Reflecting on how to negotiate local state national and global tensions related to policy and practice educators work to do what is best to equip students to foster democratic citizenship and ideals Social sciences educators are uniquely positioned to embrace a journey that upholds democratic ideals of equality freedom and justice while simultaneously critiquing inequity and injustice in schools and our society The contributors to this volume situate a variety of discussions within the context of the crossroads and explore how to negotiate translate and reconceptualize our own beliefs and positionings in ways that positively influence and empower students teachers teacher educators and education policy makers Studies are presented related to civic education cross cultural interpretations emotional citizenship international economics and race consciousness as well as those that discuss how to challenge dominant narratives and negotiate educational policies and practices The Boundless Classroom Nathan Lang-Raad, James Vince Witty, 2022 A global pandemic hit our world and education has forever changed But have your instructional practices changed Teachers must now leverage technology to provide students with high quality teaching and learning experiences that transcend a traditional classroom s walls This is a historic opportunity to abandon antiquated teaching practices and reimagine instruction in ways that boost learning outcomes and prepare students for living and working in the digital age This book offers guidance for creating and sustaining rigorous and engaging blended learning solutions Opening with lessons learned from the pandemic the book addresses impacts on lesson design and delivery student engagement assessment and teacher training and PD The following chapters build on and address these experiences with each chapter featuring practical examples on how to implement effective blended instructions as well as examples from the field to illustrate effective approaches to blended and online instruction Implantable Cardiac Devices Technology David Korpas, 2014-05-13 Development in a majority of medicine branches today is based on technological advancement This is the case in cardiology where medical devices designed to correct heart rhythm pacemakers cardioverters defibrillators and biventricular systems are implanted in order to help a sick heart Medical pacing devices today are only developed and produced globally by a several producers who make different technical solutions algorithms system parameters etc The book Implantable Cardiac Devices Technology is targeted at biomedical clinical engineers technicians in practice students of biomedical disciplines and all medical staff who are required to understand the basics of pacing technology The book is comprised of fourteen chapters that are further subdivided according to specific topics Chapters dealing with basic heart anatomy physiology and
