Combining Minds Luke Roelofs, 2019-01-28 Combining Minds is about the idea of minds built up out of other minds whether this is possible and what it would mean if it were Roelofs surveys many areas of philosophy and psychology analysing and evaluating denials and affirmations of mental combination that have been made in regard to everything from brain structure to psychological conflict to social cooperation In each case he carefully distinguishes different senses in which subjectivity might be composite and different arguments for and against them concluding that composite subjectivity in various forms may be much more common than we think Combining Minds is also the first book length defence of constitutive panpsychism against all aspects of the combination problem Constitutive panpsychism is an increasingly prominent theory holding that consciousness is naturally inherent in matter with human consciousness built up out of this basic consciousness the same way human bodies are built up out of physical matter Such a view requires that many very simple conscious minds can compose a single very complex one and a major objection made against constitutive panpsychism is that they cannot that minds simply do not combine This is the combination problem which Roelofs scrutinizes dissects and refutes It reflects not only contemporary debates but a long philosophical tradition of contrasting the apparently indivisible unity of the mind with the deep and pervasive divisibility of the material world Combining Minds draws together the threads of this problem and develops a powerful and flexible response to it

Fabian Klinge, 2020-08-31 In this book Fabian Klinge develops a novel approach for explaining phenomenal consciousness He defends a version of panpsychism that is the theory that some of the fundamental physical entities exhibit consciousness However in contrast to standard conceptions of the view the author does not take human consciousness to be grounded in but emergent from the consciousness of elementary particles In this form he argues panpsychism can overcome the doctrine s Achilles heel the combination problem without running into similarly severe problems thus rendering panpsychism a strong contender to its problem ridden rivals physicalism and dualism In addition the author provides a thorough analysis of the poorly studied concept of metaphysical emergence He argues that by refining some of the major contributions in the literature emergence can be made intelligible enough to serve as a basis for a credible solution proposal to the mind body problem Consciousness and Fundamental Reality Philip Goff, 2017 The first half of this book argues that physicalism cannot account for consciousness and hence cannot be true The second half explores and defends Russellian monism a radical alternative to both physicalism and dualism The view that emerges combines panpsychism with the view that the universe as a whole is fundamental
