Encyclopedia of Trauma Charles R. Figley, 2012-06-19 Trauma is defined as a sudden potentially deadly experience often leaving lasting troubling memories Traumatology the study of trauma its effects and methods to modify effects is exploding in terms of published works and expanding in terms of scope Originally a narrow specialty within emergency medicine the field now extends to trauma psychology military psychiatry and behavioral health post traumatic stress and stress disorders trauma social work disaster mental health and most recently the subfield of history and trauma with sociohistorical examination of long term effects and meanings of major traumas experienced by whole communities and nations both natural Pompeii Hurricane Katrina and man made the Holocaust 9 11 One reason for this expansion involves important scientific breakthroughs in detecting the neurobiology of trauma that is connecting biology with human behavior which in turn is applicable to all fields involving human thought and response including but not limited to psychiatry medicine and the health sciences the social and behavioral sciences the humanities and law Researchers within these fields and more can contribute to a universal understanding of immediate and long term consequences both good and bad of trauma both for individuals and for broader communities and institutions Trauma encyclopedias published to date all center around psychological trauma and its emotional effects on the individual as a disabling or mental disorder requiring mental health services This element is vital and has benefited from scientific and professional breakthroughs in theory research and applications Our encyclopedia certainly will cover this central element but our expanded conceptualization will include the other disciplines and will move beyond the individual

Social Psychology of Intergroup Reconciliation Arie Nadler, Thomas Malloy, Jeffrey D. Fisher, 2008-03-10 The volume begins with an overview by Herbert Kelman discussing reconciliation as distinct from related processes of conflict settlement and conflict resolution Following that the first section of the volume focuses on intergroup reconciliation as consisting of moving beyond feelings of guilt and victimization i e socio emotional reconciliation These processes include acceptance of responsibility for past wrongdoings and being forgiven in return Such processes must occur on the background of restoring and maintaining feelings of esteem and respect for each of the parties The chapters in the second section focus on processes through which parties learn to co exist in a conflict free environment and trust each other i e instrumental reconciliation Such learning results from prolonged contact between adversarial groups under optimal conditions Chapters in this section highlight the critical role of identity related processes e g common identity and power equality in this context The contributions in the third part apply the social psychological insights discussed previously to an analysis of real world programs to bring reconciliation e g Tutsis and Hutus in Rwanda Israelis and Palestinians and African societies plagued by the HIV epidemic and the Western aid donors In a concluding chapter Morton Deutsch shares his insights on intergroup reconciliation that have accumulated in close to six decades of work on conflict and its resolution

The Roots of Goodness and Resistance to Evil Ervin Staub, 2015 He explores the range of experiences that lead to active bystandership including socialization by parents teachers and peers in childhood education experiential learning and public education through media He examines what personal characteristics or dispositions result from such experiences which in turn lead to caring and helping Staub also considers how circumstances influence people both individuals and whole groups and how they join with personal dispositions to determine whether people remain passive in the face of others need or instead help others and behave in morally courageous or even heroic ways He considers how moral and caring values can be subverted by circumstances and outlines ways to resist that possibility
