Traveler American Edition:

American Travellers Abroad Harold Frederick Smith, 1999 Demonstrates that US travelers abroad were not limited to the rich and privileged even in previous centuries by presenting over 2 000 titles with full bibliographic citations and brief evaluative descriptions Arranged alphabetically by author and indexed by place and author's occupation Updated from the 1969 edition with titles subsequently discovered Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Cambridge Companion to American Travel Writing Alfred Bendixen, Judith Hamera, 2009-01-29 Travel writing has always been intimately linked with the construction of American identity Occupying the space between fact and fiction it exposes cultural fault lines and reveals the changing desires and anxieties of both the traveller and the reading public These specially commissioned essays trace the journeys taken by writers from the pre revolutionary period right up to the present They examine a wide range of responses to the problems posed by landscapes found both at home and abroad from the Mississippi and the Southwest to Europe and the Holy Land Throughout the contributors focus on the role played by travel writing in the definition and formulation of national identity and consider the experiences of minority writers as well as canonical authors This Companion forms an invaluable guide for students approaching this new important and exciting subject for the first time

American Travelers on the Nile Andrew Oliver, 2015-01-01 The Treaty of Ghent signed in 1814 ending the War of 1812 allowed Americans once again to travel abroad Medical students went to Paris artists to Rome academics to G ttingen and tourists to all European capitals More intrepid Americans ventured to Athens to Constantinople and even to Egypt Beginning with two eighteenth century travelers this book then turns to the 25 year period after 1815 that saw young men from East Coast cities among them graduates of Harvard Yale and Columbia traveling to the lands of the Bible and of the Greek and Latin authors they had first known as teenagers Naval officers off ships of the Mediterranean squadron visited Cairo to see the pyramids Two groups went on business one importing steam powered rice and cotton mills from New York the other exporting giraffes from the Kalahari Desert for wild animal shows in New York Drawing on unpublished letters and diaries together with previously neglected newspaper accounts as well as a handful of published accounts this book offers a new look at the early American experience in Egypt and the eastern Mediterranean world More than thirty illustrations complement the stories told by the travelers themselves The American Travellers' Guides William Pembroke

Fetridge, 1865 Nineteenth-Century British Travelers in the New World Christine DeVine, 2016-05-06 With cheaper publishing costs and the explosion of periodical publishing the influence of New World travel narratives was greater during the nineteenth century than ever before as they offered an understanding not only of America through British eyes but also a lens through which nineteenth century Britain could view itself Despite the differences in purpose and method the writers and artists discussed in Nineteenth Century British Travelers in the New World from Fanny Wright arriving in America in 1818 to the return of Henry James in 1904 and including Charles Dickens Frances Trollope Isabella Bird Fanny Kemble Harriet

Martineau and Robert Louis Stevenson among others as well as artists such as Eyre Crowe all contributed to the continued building of America as a construct for audiences at home. These travelers' stories and images thus presented an idea of America over which Britons could crow about their own supposed sophistication and a democratic model through which to posit their own future, all of which suggests the importance of transatlantic travel writing and the idea of America to nineteenth-century Britain.

Richard Wright's Travel Writings Virginia Whatley Smith, 2012-01-31. Attracted to remote lands by his interest in the postcolonial struggle, Richard Wright (1908-1960) became one of the few African Americans of his time to engage in travel writing. He went to emerging nations not as a sightseer but as a student of their cultures, learning the politics and the processes of social transformation. When Wright fled from the United States in 1946 to live as an expatriate in Paris, he was exposed to intellectual thoughts and challenges that transcended his social and political education in America. Three events broadened his world view: his introduction to French existentialism, the rise of the Pan Africanist movement to decolonize Africa, and Indonesia's declaration of independence from colonial rule in 1945. During the 1950s, as he traveled to emerging nations, his encounters produced four travel narratives: Black Power (1953), The Color Curtain (1956), Pagan Spain (1956), and White Man Listen (1957). Upon his death in 1960, he left behind an unfinished book on French West Africa which exists only in notes, outlines, and a draft. Written by multinational scholars, this collection of essays exploring Wright's travel writings shows how, in his hands, the genre of travel writing resisted, adapted, or modified the forms and formats practiced by white authors. Enhanced by nine photographs taken by Wright during his travels, the essays focus on each of Wright's four separate narratives as well as upon his unfinished book and reveal how Wright drew on such non-Western influences as the African American slave narrative and Asian literature of protest and resistance. The essays critique Wright's representation of customs and people and employ a broad range of interpretive modes, including the theories of formalism, feminism, and postmodernism, among others. Wright's travel books are proved here to be innovative narratives that laid down the roots of such later genres as postcolonial literature, contemporary travel writing, and resistance literature. Virginia Whatley Smith is an associate professor of English at the University of Alabama, Birmingham. Her work has appeared in African American Review, Mississippi Quarterly, and MLA Approaches to Teaching Wright's Native Son.
