Animation Chris Pallant, 2021-01-01 Animation Critical and Primary Sources is a major multi volume work of reference that brings together seminal writings on animation studies Gathering historical and contemporary texts from a wide ranging number of sources the volumes provide a key resource in understanding and studying the past and future directions of animation studies The four volumes thematically trace animation studies from its many definitions or a lack thereof to the institutional nature of animation production to establishing greater space within animation discourse for the consideration of broadcast and interactive animation and finally giving greater contextual understanding of the field of animation studies by focusing on Authorship Genre Identity Politics and Spectatorship thus enabling readers to engage more deeply with the ideas discussed in the final volume Ordering the collection in this way avoids imposing an overly simplistic chronological framework thereby allowing debates that have developed over years and even decades to stand side by side Each volume is separately introduced and the essays structured into coherent sections on specific themes

On The Margins Of Art Worlds Larry Gross,2019-06-04 During the late 1980s the near worship of artistic genius produced auction sales of works by Vincent Van Gogh and Pablo Picasso for tens of millions of dollars over 15 million for a painting by Jasper Johns and record prices for works by many other deceased and even living masters At the same time it was no longer controversial in academic and intellectual circles to maintain that art works are the products of what Howard Becker has termed collective activity carried out within loosely defined art worlds Works of art from this point of view are not the products of individual makers artists who possess a rare and special gift They are rather joint products of all the people who cooperate via an art world's characteristic conventions to bring works like that into existence Artists are some sub group of the world's participants who by common agreement possess a special gift therefore make a unique and indispensable contribution to the work and thereby make it art 1982 35 The concept of the art world with its central focus on the collective social and conventional nature of artistic production distribution and appreciation confronts and potentially undermines the romantic ideology of art and artists still dominant in Western societies
