

TREATY OF VERSAILLES

The Treaty of Versailles, signed on June 28, 1919, marked the official end of World War I. It is one of the most significant and controversial documents in modern history, with implications for international relations and the political landscape of the 20th century.

Context and Background

The Treaty of Versailles was negotiated during the Paris Peace Conference, which commenced in January 1919. The conference was dominated by the "Big Four" leaders: President Woodrow Wilson of the United States, Prime Minister David Lloyd George of the United Kingdom, Premier Georges Clemenceau of France, and Prime Minister Vittorio Orlando of Italy. Their differing agendas and visions for post-war Europe shaped the treaty's final form.

The backdrop to the treaty was a Europe devastated by four years of brutal conflict. World War I had left millions dead and large swaths of the continent in ruins. The Allies, having emerged victorious, sought to impose a settlement that would prevent future wars, punish Germany, and redistribute power and territory. The atmosphere was charged with a desire for retribution, particularly from France, which had suffered enormously during the war.

Teaching History with Big Ideas S. G. Grant,Jill M. Gradwell,2010-07-16 In the case studies that make up the bulk of this book middle and high school history teachers describe the decisions and plans and the problems and possibilities they encountered as they ratcheted up their instruction through the use of big ideas Framing a teaching unit around a question such as Why don t we know anything about Africa offers both teacher and students opportunities to explore historical actors ideas and events in ways both rich and engaging Such an approach exemplifies the construct of ambitious teaching whereby teachers demonstrate their ability to marry their deep knowledge of subject matter students and the school context in ways that fundamentally challenge the claim that history is boring
