Personal Social Services 2006 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Health Committee,2006-11-21 This memorandum contains the replies received from the Department of Health to a series of questions tabled by the Select Committee on a wide range of issues grouped under the headings of expenditure investment including the private finance initiative PFI NHS Plan and reforms including staffing pay and contracts treatment outside the NHS and the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence NICE breakdown of spending programme activity performance and efficiency and departmental annual report Caring for Vulnerable Babies Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Committee of Public Accounts,Great Britain, Parliament House of Commons Committee of Public Accounts Staff,2008 Neonatal services provide care to babies born prematurely or with an illness or condition which requires specialist care Over the last 20 years neonatal services have undergone substantial organisational and technological changes whilst remaining a challenging and innovative area of medicine Following a 2003 review of neonatal services the 180 neonatal units based in the English National Health Service and Foundation Trusts were organised into 23 geographical managed clinical networks Demand for neonatal care has risen year on year In 2007 around 60 000 babies roughly one in ten births were admitted to neonatal units at a cost to the NHS of some 420 million The networks have developed at different rates and two areas have yet to establish a formal managed network Networks have helped improve communication and co ordination between units and have made progress in reducing the number of times babies have to be transferred long distance to obtain the necessary level of care but there has been less progress on a key review recommendation for networks to re designate units to ensure that the supply of intensive intermediate and special care matches demand The NHS still has limited data on patient outcomes other than mortality rates which show unexplained variations between networks Constraints in capacity mean that the Department of Health is still struggling to meet the demand for neonatal services and problems over recruiting retaining and training the staff required to deliver the service remains a major challenge Financial management at the unit level needs to be improved Neonatal units have a poor understanding of the costs of running their unit and there are differences in how units determine their charge for a cot day with wide variations in charges between similar types of unit increased the gap in life expectancy between the national average and the Government's dedicated spearhead areas has continued to widen. The Department will not meet its target to reduce the health inequalities gap by 10 per cent by 2010 as measured by life expectancy at birth if current trends continue. The Department's strategy lacked effective mechanisms to achieve the target because the evidence base was still being developed. Three key cost-effective interventions to reduce the gap in life expectancy were identified by the Health Inequalities Intervention Tool: increase the prescribing of drugs to control blood pressure; second of drugs to reduce cholesterol by 40 per cent; and double the capacity of smoking cessation services. But these interventions have not yet been used on the scale required. Primary care trusts are required to address health inequalities from within their general budgets and it is not possible to identify how much money has been spent. PCTs in spearhead areas had 230 more per head to spend than the PCTs in non-spearheads but there is evidence that some of the extra money is absorbed by higher hospital costs in deprived areas.

State and Local Policy Initiatives to Reduce Health Disparities Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Roundtable on the Promotion of Health Equity and the Elimination of Health Disparities, 2011-10-12. Although efforts to reduce health disparities receive attention at the national level, information on the successes of state and local efforts are often not heard. On May 11 2009 the Institute of Medicine held a public workshop to discuss the role of state and local policy initiatives to reduce health disparities. The workshop brought together stakeholders to learn more about what works in reducing health disparities and ways to focus on localized efforts when working to reduce health disparities.

International Encyclopedia of Public Health William C Cockerham, 2016-10-06. The International Encyclopedia of Public Health Second Edition Seven Volume Set is an authoritative and comprehensive guide to the major issues, challenges, methods and approaches of global public health. Taking a multidisciplinary approach, this new edition combines complementary scientific fields of inquiry, linking biomedical research with the social and life sciences to address the three major themes of public health research: disease, health processes and disciplines. This book helps readers solve real-world problems in global and local health through a multidisciplinary and comprehensive approach. Covering all dimensions of the field from the details of specific diseases to the organization of social insurance agencies, the articles included cover the fundamental research areas of health promotion, economics and epidemiology as well as specific diseases such as cancer, cardiovascular diseases, diabetes and reproductive health. Additional articles on the history of public health, global issues, research priorities and health and human rights make this work an indispensable resource for students, health researchers and practitioners alike. Provides the most comprehensive high-level internationally focused reference work available on public health. Presents an invaluable resource for both researchers familiar with the field and non-experts requiring easy-to-find relevant global information and a greater understanding of the wider issues. Contains interdisciplinary coverage across all aspects of public health. Incorporates biomedical and health social science issues and perspectives. Includes an international focus with contributions from global domain experts providing a
