Nervous System Study Guide

Introduction:

The nervous system is the master coordinating system of the body. Every thought, action, and sensation reflects its activity. Because of its complexity, the structures of the nervous system are described in terms of two principal divisions—the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS). The CNS, consisting of the brain and spinal cord, interprets incoming sensory information and issues instructions based on past experience. The PNS, consisting of cranial and spinal nerves and ganglia, provides the communication lines between the CNS and the body's muscles, glands, and sensory receptors. The nervous system is also divided functionally in terms of motor activities into the somatic and autonomic divisions. It is important, however, to recognize that these classifications are made for the sake of convenience and that the nervous system acts in an integrated manner both structurally and functionally.

Questions:

1. List the three major functions of the nervous system.

- a. Sensations (sensory input)
- b. Interpretation (integration of info)
- c. Response (commands responses)

2. Choose the key responses that best correspond to the descriptions provided in the following statements. Insert the appropriate letter or term in the answer blanks.

KEY CHOICES:    A. Autonomic nervous system                      B. Central nervous system
                         C. Peripheral nervous system                      D. Somatic nervous system

- B 1. Nervous system subdivision that is composed of the brain and spinal cord.
- D 2. Subdivision of the PNS that controls voluntary activities such as the activation of skeletal muscles.
- C 3. Nervous system subdivision that is composed of the cranial and spinal nerves and ganglia.
- A 4. Subdivision of the PNS that regulates the activity of the heart and smooth muscle and of glands; it is also called the involuntary nervous system.
- B 5. A major subdivision of the nervous system that interprets incoming information and issues orders.
- C 6. A major subdivision of the nervous system that serves as communication lines, linking all parts of the body to the CNS.

Self-Organization in the Nervous System Yan M. Yufik, Biswa Sengupta, Karl Friston, 2017-11-30 This special issue reviews state of the art approaches to the biophysical roots of cognition. These approaches appeal to the notion that cognitive capacities serve to optimize responses to changing external conditions. Crucially this optimisation rests on the ability to predict changes in the environment thus allowing organisms to respond pre emptively to changes before their onset. The biophysical mechanisms that underwrite these cognitive capacities remain largely unknown although a number of hypotheses has been advanced in systems neuroscience biophysics and other disciplines. These hypotheses converge on the intersection of thermodynamic and information theoretic formulations of self organization in the brain. The latter perspective emerged when Shannon's theory of message transmission in communication systems was used to characterise message passing between neurons. In its subsequent incarnations the information theory approach has been integrated into computational neuroscience and the Bayesian brain framework. The thermodynamic formulation rests on a view of the brain as an aggregation of stochastic microprocessors neurons with subsequent appeal to the constructs of statistical mechanics and thermodynamics. In particular the use of ensemble dynamics to elucidate the relationship between micro scale parameters and those of the macro scale aggregation the brain. In general the thermodynamic approach treats the brain as a dissipative system and seeks to represent the development and functioning of cognitive mechanisms as collective capacities that emerge in the course of self organization. Its explicanda include energy efficiency enabling progressively more complex cognitive operations such as long term prediction and anticipatory planning. A cardinal example of the Bayesian brain approach is the free energy principle that explains self organizing dynamics in the brain in terms of its predictive capabilities and selective sampling of sensory inputs that optimise variational free energy as a proxy for Bayesian model evidence. An example of thermodynamically grounded proposals in this issue associates self organization with phase transitions in neuronal state spaces resulting in the formation of bounded neuronal assemblies neuronal packets. This special issue seeks a discourse between thermodynamic and informational formulations of the self organising and self evidencing brain. For example could minimization of thermodynamic free energy during the formation of neuronal packets underlie minimization of variational free energy.

Modelling Future Telecommunications Systems P. Cochrane, David J.T. Heatley, 2012-12-06

Telecommunications today is in the midst of far reaching changes due to rapid development of new technologies services and social evolution. This is the first book to model the process of change in telecommunications including all of the relevant factors. The approach is practical and responsible based on hard facts and tested models. It deals with fundamental issues affecting the future development of telecoms and its impact on societies and presents views which some will find radical.
