

SOCIOLOGY 100 FINAL EXAM STUDY

• SOCIAL STRATIFICATION

Karl Marx created the two class system bourgeoisie and proletariat

• RACE AND ETHNICITY

Ethnicity - Culture, traditions and beliefs

Race - Differences in human physical characteristics

Race changes depending on where you are as a result of colonization

Stuart Hall talks about race as floating signifier

Theories and perspectives associated with racism

Functionalist:

1. Nash (1964) focused his argument on the way racism is functional for the dominant group, for example, suggesting that racism morally justifies a racially unequal society. Consider the way slave owners justified slavery in the antebellum South, by suggesting black people were fundamentally inferior to white and preferred slavery to freedom.
2. A way to apply the functionalist perspective to racism is to discuss the way racism can contribute positively to the functioning of society by strengthening bonds between in-groups members through the ostracism of out-group members. Consider how a community might increase solidarity by refusing to allow outsiders access.

Conflict Theory:

A conflict theory perspective of U.S. history would examine the numerous past and current struggles between the white ruling class and racial and ethnic minorities, noting specific conflicts that have arisen when the dominant group perceived a threat from the minority group.

Interactionist:

some interactionists propose that the symbols of race, not race itself, are what lead to racism. Famed interactionist Herbert Blumer (1958) suggested that racial prejudice is formed through interactions between members of the dominant group: Without these interactions, individuals in the dominant group would not hold racist views. These interactions contribute to an abstract picture of the subordinate group that allows the dominant group to support its view of the subordinate group, and thus maintains the status quo.

• EXTRA NOTES

> Redlining can be defined as a discriminatory practice that consists of the systematic denial of services such as mortgages, insurance loans, and other financial services to residents of certain areas, based on their race or ethnicity.

> Racial steering refers to the practice in which real estate brokers guide prospective home buyers towards or away from certain neighborhoods based on their race.

> Prejudice is a preconceived opinion that is not based on reason or actual

What types of agency do young people demonstrate This book aims to scrutinize some of the conceptual ideas that underlie prevalent visions of youth as agents of social change and as a source of hope for a better future As a part of the Education and Society in South Asia series it provides insightful accounts of students daily routines on and around a public university campus in Kathmandu Nepal and calls attention to a group of non elite university students who have remained less visible in scholarly and public debates about student activism youth unemployment and international migration By placing different strands of literature on youth aspiration and mobility into conversation In Search of a Future unveils new and important perspectives on how young people navigate competing social expectations educational inequalities and limited job prospects

Straightforward Statistics Chieh-Chen Bowen, 2015-09-16 Straightforward Statistics by Chieh Chen Bowen is written in plain language and connects material in a clear logical manner to help students across the social and behavioral sciences develop a big picture understanding of foundational statistics Each new chapter is purposefully connected with the previous chapter for a gradual accrual of knowledge from simple to more complex concepts this effective cumulative approach to statistics through logical transitions eases students into statistics and prepares them for success in more advanced quantitative coursework and their own research

Threshold Concepts on the Edge Julie A. Timmermans, Ray Land, 2019-12-30 Since the first literature about the Threshold Concepts Framework was published in 2003 a considerable body of educational research into this topic has grown internationally across a wide range of disciplines and professional fields Successful negotiation of a threshold concept can be seen as crossing boundaries into new conceptual space or as a portal opening up new and previously inaccessible ways of thinking about something In this unfamiliar conceptual terrain fresh insights and perceptions come into view and access is gained to new discourses This frequently entails encounters with troublesome knowledge knowledge which provokes a liminal phase of transition in which new understandings must be integrated and importantly prior conceptions relinquished There is often double trouble in that letting go of a prevailing familiar view frequently involves a discomfiting change in the subjectivity of the learner We become what we know It is a space in which the learner might become stuck Threshold Concepts on the Edge the fifth volume in a series on this subject discusses the new directions of this research Its six sections address issues that arise in relation to theoretical development liminal space ontological transformations curriculum interdisciplinarity and aspects of writing across learning thresholds
