The moon gets its light from the sun. Light reflects off the moon's surface and travels back to Earth.

During a lunar eclipse, Earth passes between the sun and the moon, casting a shadow on the moon.

The moon's gravitational pull causes the Earth's oceans to bulge out, creating tides. The moon also causes the Earth's crust to bulge out, creating mountains.

The moon takes 29.5 days to complete one orbit around the Earth. This is why we see different phases of the moon.

As the moon orbits the Earth, the Sun's light hits different parts of the moon's surface, creating the phases we see.
