influence current media evolution Drew allows readers to understand not only the Youtubes and Facebooks of today but to anticipate the trajectory of the technologies to come Beginning with a look at the inherent weaknesses of the U S broadcasting model of mass media Drew outlines the early 1960s and 1970s experiments in grassroots media where artists and activists began to re engineer electronic technologies to target local communities and underserved audiences From these local projects emerged national and international communications projects creating production models social networks and citizen expectations that would challenge traditional means of electronic media and cultural production Drew s perspective puts the social and cultural use of the user at the center not the particular media form Thus the structure of the book focuses on the local the national and the global desire for communications regardless of the means Media Studies: Media history, media and society Pieter Jacobus Fourie,2007 While examining exactly who owns the media and who produces the media this text manages to encompass the systematic critical and analytical media in all its forms and concludes that the media is one of the most important generators and disseminators of meaning in contemporary society Investigating the power relationships between the media and politics culture economy society and above all democracy this resource is well suited for anyone with an interest in the modern role of media in society Media Studies: A Complete Introduction: Teach Yourself Joanne Hollows,2016-06-02 Written by an academic and researcher with over twenty years experience in teaching and convening Media Studies courses Media Studies A Complete Introduction is designed to give you everything you need to succeed all in one place It covers the key areas that students are expected to be confident in outlining the basics in clear jargon free English and then providing added value features like case studies and even lists of questions you might be asked in your seminar or exam The book uses a structure that mirrors the way Media Studies is taught on many university courses Chapters include essential coverage of the history organization and production of the media industries and regulation of the media The analysis of media texts is covered in detail as are the issues of identity and gender the idea of globalization and the shifting face of social media in its many contexts Shared Encounters Katharine S. McCulloch introduces the section on spatial settings and last but not least Elizabeth Churchill previews the topic of social glue. Communicating the North Peter Stadius, 2016-05-23. What makes a magazine in South Africa promote Scandinavian unity among its immigrant readers and why does a Swedish king endorse attempts to influence pan Scandinavian opinion through a transnational media event in Sweden, Norway and Denmark? Can portraits of exotic Laplanders in the British press, enthusiastic accounts of the welfare state in post war travel literature and descriptions of the liberal Nordic woman as a metaphor for a freer society in Franco Spain really be bundled together under a joint label of Nordicism? How is it that despite the variety of images of the Nordic region that are circulating we still find this recurring idea of a shared Nordic identity? These are some of the questions the current volume seeks to answer. Covering the time period from the early nineteenth century up until the present and encompassing case studies from Britain, Spain, Poland and South Africa as well as from the Nordic countries, contributors to the volume investigate the images that have been presented of the Nordic region in the media in and outside of the Nordic countries, how such images have been shaped by mechanisms of mediation and the channels through which they have been distributed. The chapters address both specific cases such as media events and individual publications as well as the structural and institutional settings for mediating the Nordic region.

Alphabet to Internet Irving Fang, 2014-11-13. What Greek philosopher thought writing would harm a student's memory? Was the poet Byron's daughter the first computer programmer? Who plays more video games, women over 18 or teenage boys? In Alphabet to Internet: Media in Our Lives Irving Fang looks at each medium of communication through the centuries asking not only What happened but also How did society change because of this new communication medium and How are we different as a result? Examining the impact of different media on a broad historical scale among them mass printing, the telegraph, film, the internet and advertising, Alphabet to Internet takes us from the first scratches of writing and the origins of mail to today's video games, the widespread and daily use of smartphones and the impact of social media in political uprisings across the globe. A timeline at the end of each chapter places events in perspective and allows students to pinpoint key moments in media history. Now in its third edition, Alphabet to Internet presents a lively, thoughtful and accessible introduction to media history.

The Measure of Civilization Ian Morris, 2013-01-27. A groundbreaking look at Western and Eastern social development from the end of the ice age to today. In the past thirty years there have been fierce debates over how civilizations develop and why the West became so powerful. The Measure of Civilization presents a brand new way of investigating these questions and provides new tools for assessing the long term growth of societies. Using a groundbreaking numerical index of social development that compares societies in different times and places, award winning author Ian Morris sets forth a sweeping examination of Eastern and Western development across 15 000 years since the end of the last ice age He offers surprising conclusions about when and why the West came to dominate the world and fresh perspectives for thinking about the twenty first century Adapting the United Nations approach for measuring human development Morris s index breaks social development into four traits energy capture per capita organization information technology and war making capacity and he uses archaeological historical and current government data to quantify patterns Morris reveals that for 90 percent of the time since the last ice age the world s most advanced region has been at the western end of Eurasia but contrary to what many historians once believed there were roughly 1 200 years from about 550 to 1750 CE when an East Asian region was more advanced Only in the late eighteenth century CE when northwest Europeans tapped into the energy trapped in fossil fuels did the West leap ahead Resolving some of the biggest debates in global history The Measure of Civilization puts forth innovative tools for determining past present and future economic and social trends
