Cosmology, Calendars, and Horizon-Based Astronomy in Ancient

Mesoamerica Anne S. Dowd,Susan Milbrath,2015-05-15 Cosmology Calendars and Horizon Based Astronomy in Ancient Mesoamerica is an interdisciplinary tour de force that establishes the critical role astronomy played in the religious and civic lives of the ancient peoples of Mesoamerica Providing extraordinary examples of how Precolumbian peoples merged ideas about the cosmos with those concerning calendar and astronomy the volume showcases the value of detailed examinations of astronomical data for understanding ancient cultures The volume is divided into three sections investigations into Mesoamerican horizon based astronomy the cosmological principles expressed in Mesoamerican religious imagery and rituals related to astronomy and the aspects of Mesoamerican calendars related to archaeoastronomy It also provides cutting edge research on diverse topics such as records of calendar and horizon based astronomical observation like the Dresden and Borgia codices iconography of burial assemblages architectural alignment studies urban planning and counting or measuring devices Contributors who are among the most respected in their fields explore new dimensions in Mesoamerican timekeeping and skywatching in the Olmec Maya Teotihuacano Zapotec and Aztec cultures It will be of great interest to students and scholars of anthropology archaeology art history and astronomy

Social Orders and Social Landscapes

Charles W. Hartley,Laura M. Popova,Adam T. Smith,2021-02-10 Social Orders and Social Landscapes marks a new direction in research for Eurasian archaeology that focuses on how people lived in their local environment and interacted with their near and distant neighbours rather than on overarching comparisons of archaeological culture complexes Stemming from the 2005 University of Chicago Eurasian Archaeology Conference the papers collected here reflect this new research agenda though the way in which each author addressed the theme of the conference and thus the book was strikingly varied This diversity arises out of the field s intellectual flux driven by the principled engagement of the rich analytical traditions of the Soviet CIS Anglo American and European schools Despite the variability in approaches and subject matter several key themes emerged 1 the reinterpretation culture categories by examining particular aspects of social life 2 the role social memory plays in the production of landscape and place 3 the influence of the built environment on societies and 4 the ways in which economic considerations affect social orders and landscapes The result is a book that helps to re image Eurasia as a complex landscape fragmented by historically contingent and shifting ecological and social boundaries rather than a bounded mosaic of culture areas or environmental zones Scholarly research on Eurasia was transformed by the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991 Entire areas and fields of research became accessible to European and American scholars for the first time resulting in the emergence of new centers specializing in primary field investigations throughout the vast politically transformed landmass of Eurasia One such center is the University of Chicago that has recently sponsored two large international conferences on Eurasian archaeology Social Orders and Social Landscapes is the product of the second Chicago conference held in spring 2005 The editors of the volume should be proud of their efforts that have resulted in such a broad ranging and prompt publication The articles encompass a variety of disciplinary perspectives including archaeology history art history palynology and zooarchaeology extend chronologically from Neolithic and Bronze Age times to the formation of national identity in Turkey in the early 20th century and range geographically from Europe to China Several articles reconstruct basic subsistence activities others analyze distinctive settlement types and political and cultural frontiers including the assimilation and emergence of new self defined ethnic groups and the selective adoption of new systems of religious belief What unites this diverse collection is their consistent emphasis on the social construction of reality and the production of social landscapes and memories that altered perceptions of the physical world and mediated the practical activities that here have been convincingly reconstructed from the archaeological record In so doing rigid stereotypes are questioned and novel interpretations persuasively advanced Early Bronze Age pastoralism on the south Russian steppes did not consist exclusively of herding animals nor was it combined as it was later in the Iron Age with the pursuit of agriculture rather D Anthony and D Brown suggest that at least in the Samara river valley the herding of animals occurred along side the intensive gathering of wild nutritionally rich plants The kalas of ancient Chorasmia are not cities nor even proto urban formations but rather are large heavily fortified enclosures meant to repel attacks of armed nomadic cavalry They represent a continuation of a distinct Central Asian settlement pattern that began in the Bronze Age and that formed the center of a landscape divided into contiguous self contained oases The Mongols not only herded livestock but also farmed fished hunted and traded throughout the vast area that they had conquered uniting most of Eurasia into a single economically integrated system New perspectives proliferate throughout this richly detailed and extremely broad ranging collected volume Phil Kohl Professor of Anthropology and the Kathryn W Davis Professor of Slavic Studies at Wellesley College Social Orders and Social Landscapes is a stimulating addition to the still small literature in English making the rich datasets from the archaeology of Eurasia widely accessible to Western scholars The authors of the eighteen chapters analyze data from China to the Mediterranean from the fourth millennium BCE through the fourteenth century CE with the tools of art and architectural history text analysis paleobotany and paleozoology and anthropological theory among others The product of a conference at the University of Chicago this book fulfils the goal of the graduate student organizers to apply interdisciplinary approaches to understanding the archaeology and history of the Eurasian landmass in local terms through a focus on how people lived in their local environments In the decade and a half since the end of the Soviet Union scholarly communication has broadened and the mutual influences have stimulated many new and thought provoking views on the Eurasian past This book is an exemplary product of the new scholarly discourse Karen S Robinson Research Scholar Department of Anthropology Barnard College Columbia University Introduction to Geological Maps and Structures John L. Roberts, 2013-10-22 Introduction to Geological Maps and Structures describes the basic methods to interpret and attain a better understanding of geological maps The book describes the nature and preparation of geological maps and then covers topics such as solid and drift maps geological boundaries sections and the use of symbols The book explains sedimentary rocks outcrop patterns and the topographic representation of geological structures The text also addresses the geometry of folds and folding when pre existing surfaces are distorted into zigzag patterns The author explains in detail the morphology of folded layers and the mechanism involved in folding He goes on to interpret the formation of outcrop patterns as well as the structure of a cylindrical and cylindroidal fold patterns The author also describes the different structures that result from the brittle fractures present in rocks that undergo massive stress Of interest is the presentation of how fissures and mineral veins are formed and deposited The author then discusses earth movements resulting in angular unconformities known as stratigraphic break These breaks in the stratigraphic record such as diastems non sequences paraconformities or disconformities can be interpreted as the intervals of geological time The book then explains the nature of tectonic maps which involves features arising from the continental crust and how these maps are different from geological maps that show the outcrop of lithostratigraphic units Geologists cartographers meteorologists seismologists land use developers and students of the earth sciences will find this book valuable

A Research Agenda for Social Innovation Howaldt, Jürgen, Kaletka, Christoph, Schröder, Antonius, 2021-11-12 This insightful Research Agenda offers unique perspectives into the different strands of social innovation research covering the history and theory of this ever growing research field Chapters show the range and depth of the social advances that characterize this vibrant and contested subject and analyse the strong increase in political and public interest in social innovation Horizon, Sea, Sound Andrea A. China Horizon, The: Glory And Dream Of A Civilizational State Weiwei Zhang,2016-05-10 This is a book of China's own political narrative written by one of China's leading and best known thinkers. It is the last part of the author's China Trilogy which is a best seller in China with over one million copies sold. The book in itself is a centerpiece of the unfolding debate within China on the nature and future of the country and how it compares with the West. It addresses a hugely important issue of the day i.e. in what way China is overtaking or may overtake the United States as the world's preeminent power. The author provides an original and thought provoking study on how China has managed through its own development model to catch up and even surpass to various extents the United States in terms of gross GDP net household assets and social protection. The book elaborates on how China has engaged itself in reshaping its institutions to ensure its smooth rise drawing on the strengths of its own traditions socialist legacies and elements from the West. It analyzes the weakness of the Western political institutions and discusses how China has developed its own institutional edge over the West. The author argues that as a civilizational state China has evolved a logic of its own for development and its own political discourse which questions seriously many Western assumptions about democracy good governance and universal values. The book recaptures the essence of China's past glory and discusses the horizon of the Chinese dream as well as how China should meet the various challenges ahead. It offers a unique and original perspective on the future of this coming superpower. Like The China Wave this book is both discerning and provocative and serves as a required reading for everyone concerned with the rise of China and its global implications Illinois Studies in the Social Sciences ,1934 No Visible Horizon Joshua Cooper Ramo,2007-11-01 The flying life has always demanded a passage across the razor's edge. At any moment you could slip to the other side a gas leak weather fire in the cockpit. Sometimes what made the risks particularly horrible was that you could watch your mistakes play out in front of you as a chorus of guilt followed you down. Usually you survived and could describe this music to others but none of you not even with a long and growing trail of dead friends ever stopped flying. That was the truly unthinkable thing. In a good year aerobatics is one of the most beautiful sports imaginable. Pilots pull through impossibly elegant figures twisting their planes at hundreds of miles an hour. The stress on their bodies reaches ten times the force of gravity but this is nothing compared to the strain on their minds and the tension in their souls. In a bad year no sport kills more of its participants. To fly really well and to win you must depart the land of the possible and enter a place of pure faith. In this stunning literary debut Joshua Cooper Ramo has crafted a meditation on the seduction of flight and a passionate love letter to a life of risk. It is partly the story of his own decision after a decade of casual aerobatics to transform himself into a serious competitive pilot aiming to finish high at the U.S. national competition. He introduces us to some of the greatest aerobatic pilots in the world geniuses like Leo Loudenslager a mild mannered American Airlines pilot who spent his weekends redefining what it was possible to do in the air with a plane flying figures so hard they made his eyes bleed as he whimpered with pain in the cockpit or Kirby Chambliss the Arizona pilot who performed figures just inches off the runway and sent his plane shooting through holes in cliffs The classics of flight and extreme adventure West With the Night Wind Sand and Stars and Into Thin Air have brought a poetic vision to their subjects No Visible Horizon is an elegant and thrilling exploration not simply of a pilot's physical battle against gravity but of his dream of perfection and his quest for faith

Conservation Research, Policy and Practice William J. Sutherland, Peter N. M. Brotherton, Zoe G. Davies, Nancy Ockendon, Nathalie Pettorelli, Juliet A. Vickery, 2020-04-16 Conservation research is essential for advancing knowledge but to make an impact scientific evidence must influence conservation policies decision making and practice This raises a multitude of challenges How should evidence be collated and presented to policymakers to maximise its impact How can effective collaboration between conservation scientists and decision makers be established How can the resulting messages be communicated to bring about change Emerging from a successful international symposium organised by the British Ecological Society and the Cambridge Conservation Initiative this is the first book to practically address these questions across a wide range of conservation topics Well renowned experts guide readers through global case studies and their own experiences A must read for practitioners researchers graduate students and policymakers wishing to enhance the prospect of their work making a difference This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core The Social Studies
