

How it Works

IBM's SoftFrac Synergistica employs full-page advanced text classification, and image based classification, to identify and sort documents such as invoices, mortgage and tax documents, insurance applications, and medical records. The software identifies the unique words for each document and compares them to learn hundreds of documents within minutes. Synergistica can also use barcodes and other values on documents to automatically determine where a document starts and ends. All of this means that operators only have to focus on the exceptions.

Synergistica leverages leading-edge technology to automatically extract data from documents for sorting and the reduction of paper handling and manual data entry.

Synergistica supports a wide range of data extraction technologies, including:

- Free form unstructured extraction
- Barcode extraction
- Handwriting extraction
- Mark sense extraction
- Fuzzy database extraction
- PDF to text extraction
- Fixed form extraction

Synergistica accurately extracts data fields from unstructured forms using key words, values and patterns. In an invoice processing application, these fields might include the invoice date, account number, purchase order number, service code, amount, or due date. Data can be quickly validated using databases and table lookups.

Synergistica also exports data to any format, including xml and PDF, or any content management system, such as IBM FileNet, Documentum, SharePoint, or Actbase. Synergistica can also process documents directly from these systems, so the documents never need to leave the repository.
