Social Justice in EAP and ELT Contexts Paul Breen, Michèle le Roux, 2024-02-22 This book articulates an understanding of what is meant by the term social justice from a global perspective drawing upon examples of practice from across a range of English for academic purposes EAP and English language teaching ELT higher education contexts Presently within western higher educational systems there is a drive for greater integration of approaches that lend themselves to social justice However questions still remain about what that means in practice This book seeks to answer that not by telling but by showing It presents a series of chapters that act as vignettes into a diverse set of classrooms contexts and countries offering examples of how and where an epistemology of social justice has been put into practice in teaching and learning situations Such situations range from cross continental higher educational partnerships between east and west to instances of EAP practitioners work with refugees from North Africa and the Middle East These examples are threaded together by the common goal of understanding what it is that defines an enactment of social justice and what the shared denominators are across these contexts Through looking at these various examples the authors produce a set of codes and themes that are common to practice across contexts and discuss how these might help inform practice in other areas of language education higher education and educational development work in general

Assessing Listening for Chinese English Learners Pan Zhixin, 2016-12-08 This book reports in detail the newly developed Communicative Listening Comprehension Test CLCT for the National College English Test CET of China Following the principles of communicative testing in general and test construction approach proposed by Bachman and Palmer 1996 in particular the project develops CLCT for CET 4 and CET 6 The research begins with the construction of frameworks of listening task characteristics and communicative listening ability Subsequently based on a survey of Chinese college students English listening needs and an analysis of listening tasks in influential English listening course books and public tests CLCT 4 and CLCT 6 test specifications are developed Finally sample papers are produced and a series of posteriori studies are conducted to examine the difficulty and usefulness of the newly developed notes completion task type in two CLCT tests As an example of successful integration of communicative testing theories and test construction practice this research provides valuable insights into listening test development for other large scale tests Oxford EAP : a course in English for academic purposes.
