Time to ACT Mark Roberts, Frederico Gil Sander, Sailesh Tiwari, 2019-04-20. Indonesia has urbanized rapidly since its independence in 1945, profoundly changing its economic geography and giving rise to a diverse array of urban places. These places range from the bustling metropolis of Jakarta to rapidly emerging urban centers in hitherto largely rural parts of the country. Although urbanization has produced considerable benefits for many Indonesians, its potential has only been partially realized. Time to ACT: Realizing Indonesia's Urban Potential explores the extent to which urbanization in Indonesia has delivered in terms of prosperity, inclusiveness, and livability. The report takes a broad view of urbanization's performance in these three key areas, covering both the monetary and nonmonetary aspects of welfare. It analyzes the fundamental reforms that can help the country to more fully achieve widespread and sustainable benefits, and it introduces a new policy framework, the ACT framework, to guide policy making. This framework emphasizes the three policy principles of Augment, Connect, and Target. Augment the provision and quality of infrastructure and basic services across urban and rural locations. Connect places and people to jobs and opportunities and services. Target lagging areas and marginalized groups through well-designed place-based policies as well as thoughtful urban planning and design. Using this framework, the report provides policy recommendations differentiated by four types of place that differ in both their economic characteristics and the challenges that they face multidistrict metro areas single district metro areas nonmetro urban areas and nonmetrorural areas In addition to its eight chapters Time to ACT Realizing Indonesia s Urban Potential includes four spotlights on strengthening the disaster resilience of Indonesian cities the nexus betweenurbanization and human capital the invisible crisis of wastewater management and the potential for smart cities in Indonesia If Indonesia continues to urbanize in line with global historical standards more than 70 percent of its population will be living in towns and cities by the time the country celebrates the centenary of its independence in 2045 Accordingly how Indonesia manages this continued expansion of its urban population and the mounting congestion forces that expansion brings will do much to determine whether the country reaches the upper rungs of the global ladder of prosperity inclusiveness and livability The Mining Journal, Railway and Commercial Gazette ,1891 Designing Mobile Service Systems - Revised Second Edition E.A.M. van de Kar,2008-10-08 This publication is the second in the Research in Design series Design is an effort that enjoys a growing attention in the academic world At Delft University of Technology design is a recognized part of science Like other technical universities Delft is rooted in the engineering field And in spite of questions like what is design what is engineering and what is science which can be debated in long sessions and differences that are hard to explain it is possible to feel the differences In this book the authors contribute to the development of a design language for the service domain In general the engineering discipline is expanding into a field that embraces perspectives of more disciplines and actors next to the engineer who is responsible for the artefact The first volume in this Research in Design Series stresses the stakeholder oriented approach in the domain of architecture and urban planning Binnekamp van Gunsteren van Loon 2006 The domain in this volume is services This is a field in which the involvement of different stakeholders with different interests in the design process is particularly a critical success factor A note on the second edition improvements have been made to the text and illustrations Apart from that the first and second edition are interchangeable
