

Theme Study Guide

Terminology and Analysis Application:

Theme—the central idea, or insight, about life or human behavior that a story reveals

Theme Revelation in text:

- The theme is not stated directly. Instead, it is revealed to us through the characters' experiences.
- What does theme generalize? Theme is a generalization about life or human nature.

Universal Themes: (Know all of these facts-I may ask you about all 4)

- come up again and again (repetition) in literature (this is called a literary motif)
- deal with basic human concerns—Themes: good and evil, life and death, love and loss
- shine a light on our common experiences
- help guide us through our lives

Finding the Theme:

- The theme is not the same thing as the subject
- The subject is simply the topic. It can be stated in a single word, such as loyalty
- The theme makes some revelation about the subject and should be expressed in a sentence: "Loyalty to a leader is not always noble."

Conflict Reveals Theme: Think about this: What is the conflict, or struggle between opposing forces, that the main character faces?

Conflict

Two friends find a wallet. One friend wants to return it to the owner; the other wants to keep it.

Resolution

They return the wallet and share a small reward.

THEME

People are often rewarded for making the right moral decision.
