Towards a Philosophy of Cinematography Alexander Nevill, 2021-06-01 This book presents three interrelated essays about cinematography which offer a theoretical understanding of the ways that film practitioners orchestrate light in today's post digital context Cinematography is a practice at the heart of film production which traditionally involves the control of light and camera technologies to creatively capture moving imagery During recent years the widespread adoption of digital processes in cinematography has received a good deal of critical attention from practitioners and scholars alike however little specific consideration about evolving lighting practices can be found amongst this discourse Drawing on new materialist ideas actor network theory and the concept of co creativity these essays examine the impact of changing production processes for the role and responsibilities of a cinematographer with a specific focus on lighting Each essay advances a new perspective on the discipline moving from the notion of light as vision to light as material from technology as a tool to technology as a network and from cinematography as an industry to cinematography as a collaborative art

Bay Lexicon Jane Wolff, 2021-08-15 As human populations inhabiting cities have grown dramatically we have lost the ability to understand and even to see the natural world around us We lack the vocabulary to describe our surroundings and this lack of understanding limits our ability as citizens to contribute to political decisions about the landscape of cities especially at the edges where land meets water Bay Lexicon a field guide to San Francisco's shoreline is a case study in establishing a working language for hybrid landscapes Centred on a walk along the edge of the iconic San Francisco Bay it documents deciphers and classifies the places and phenomena a person encounters and the forces histories and interactions that underlie what is visible In a unique synthesis of text and drawing Jane Wolff applies analytical and representational tools based in design and documentary work to findings from the fields of geography environmental and cultural history public policy urban ecology and landscape studies As our cities face increasing pressure caused by climate change we will need to reimagine them in terms that do justice to their complexity Bay Lexicon's methods for building landscape literacy are meant for translation adaptation and use far beyond San Francisco Bay Through activist scholarship that cuts across disciplinary boundaries and levels of expertise this book examines how the landscape at the water's edge works documents its historical evolution brings its citizens values to light and frames conversations about how and why it might change

Documenting the World Gregg Mitman, Kelley Wilder, 2016-12-20 Imagine the twentieth century without photography and film Its history would be absent of images that define historical moments and generations the death camps of Auschwitz the assassination of John F Kennedy the Apollo lunar landing It would be a history in other words of just artists renderings and the spoken and written word To inhabitants of the twenty first century deeply immersed in visual culture such a history seems insubstantial imprecise and even perhaps unscientific Documenting the World is about the material and social life of photographs and film made in the scientific quest to document the world Drawing on scholars from the fields of art history visual anthropology and science and technology studies the chapters in this book explore how this documentation from the initial recording of images to their acquisition and storage to their circulation has altered our lives our ways of knowing our social and economic relationships and even our surroundings Far beyond mere illustration photography and film have become an integral transformative part of the world they seek to show us Representing Landscapes: Hybrid
