The Allure of Immortality Lyn Millner,2023-02-07 Wall Street Journal s Five Best Books About Cults The true story of cult leader Cyrus Teed and his hollow earth theory For five days in December 1908 the body of Cyrus Teed lay in a bathtub at a beach house just south of Fort Myers Florida His followers the Koreshans waited for signs that he was coming back to life They watched hieroglyphics emerge on his skin and observed what looked like the formation of a third arm They saw his belly fall and rise with breath even though his swollen tongue sealed his mouth As his corpse turned black they declared that their leader was transforming into the Egyptian god Horus Teed was a charismatic and controversial guru who at the age of 30 had been illuminated by an angel in his electro alchemical laboratory At the turn of the twentieth century surrounded by the marvels of the Second Industrial Revolution he proclaimed himself a prophet and led 200 people out of Chicago and into a new age Or so he promised The Koreshans settled in a mosquito infested scrubland and set to building a communal utopia inside what they believed was a hollow earth with humans living on the inside crust and the entire universe contained within According to Teed s socialist and millennialist teachings if his people practiced celibacy and focused their love on him he would return after death and they would all become immortal Was Teed a visionary or villain savior or two bit charlatan Why did his promises and his theory of cellular cosmogony persuade so many Now comes the bombshell news that David Koresh apocalyptic leader of the Waco Branch Davidians plagiarized Teed and did so unwittingly Released on the 30th anniversary of the deadly events in Waco this edition of The Allure of Immortality includes a preface about this astonishing discovery In this book Lyn Millner weaves the many bizarre strands of Teed s life and those of his followers into a riveting story of angels conmen angry husbands yellow journalism and ultimately hope

A Knock on the Door Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada,2015-12-15 It can start with a knock on the door one morning It is the local Indian agent or the parish priest or perhaps a Mounted Police officer So began the school experience of many Indigenous children in Canada for more than a hundred years and so begins the history of residential schools prepared by the Truth Reconciliation Commission of Canada TRC Between 2008 and 2015 the TRC provided opportunities for individuals families and communities to share their experiences of residential schools and released several reports based on 7000 survivor statements and five million documents from government churches and schools as well as a solid grounding in secondary sources A Knock on the Door published in collaboration with the National Research Centre for Truth Reconciliation gathers material from the several reports the TRC has produced to present the essential history and legacy of residential schools in a concise and accessible package that includes new materials to help inform and contextualize the journey to reconciliation that Canadians are now embarked upon Survivor and former National Chief of the Assembly First Nations Phil Fontaine provides a Foreword and an Afterword introduces the holdings and opportunities of the National Centre for Truth Reconciliation home to the archive of recordings and documents collected by the TRC As Aim e Craft writes in the Afterword knowing the historical backdrop of residential schooling and its legacy is essential to the work of reconciliation In the past agents of the Canadian state knocked on the doors of Indigenous families to take the children to school Now the Survivors have shared their truths and knocked back It is time for Canadians to open the door to mutual understanding respect and reconciliation

Madigan V. Illinois Commerce Commission ,2007 Canada's Residential Schools: The History, Part 2, 1939 to 2000 Commission de vérité et réconciliation du Canada,2016-01-01 Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools The History Part 2 1939 to 2000 carries the story of the residential school system from the end of the Great Depression to the closing of the last remaining schools in the late 1990s It demonstrates that the underfunding and unsafe living conditions that characterized the early history of the schools continued into an era of unprecedented growth and prosperity for most Canadians. A miserly funding formula meant that into the late 1950s school meals fell short of the Canada Food Rules. Overcrowding, poor sanitation, and a failure to adhere to fire safety rules were common problems throughout this period. While government officials had come to view the schools as costly and inefficient, the churches were reluctant to countenance their closure. It was not until the late 1960s that the federal government finally wrested control of the system away from the churches. Government plans to turn First Nations education over to the provinces met with opposition from Aboriginal organizations that were seeking Indian Control of Indian Education. Following a parent-led occupation of a school in Alberta, many of the remaining schools came under Aboriginal administration. The closing of the schools coincided with a growing number of convictions of former staff members on charges of sexually abusing students. These trials revealed the degree to which sexual abuse at the schools had been covered up in the past. Former students who came to refer to themselves as Survivors established regional and national organizations and provided much of the leadership for the campaign that led to the federal government issuing in 2008 an apology to the former students and their families.
