events and places Understanding Zora Neale Hurston's *Their Eyes Were Watching God Neal Lester, 1999-10-30
 Zora Neale Hurston's Their Eyes Were Watching God highlights the vitality of African American culture. This casebook demonstrates how African Americans fashioned themselves individually and collectively to combat racism, classism, and sexism. With provocative documents that contextualize the complex issues of the novel, Lester provides an excellent resource for students and teachers first approaching the excitement and cultural flavor that define Hurston's novels. The casebook is an encyclopedia of African American folk culture that simultaneously presents historical, political, and social commentary on the relationships between men and women and between blacks and whites in America. Documents include interviews with people living in the South at the time of the novel's publication, poetry, rap, folktales, and sermons. Also included are original materials on ebonics, minstrel songs, the blues tradition, the novel in theatrical and dance performance, and materials on Hurston's hometown of Eatonville, Florida.

Teaching Literature to Adolescents Alan B. Howes, 1972 Love's Virtues Mike W. Martin, 1996. This book brings together a sensitive understanding of love and an unusually careful, even painstaking analysis of the enormous but often neglected role of morality and the virtues in love. Martin's discussions of such virtues as caring, courage, fidelity, and honesty are superb; the examples well chosen; the argument personal but nevertheless rigorous; the prose accessible and enjoyable to read.

History and Memory in African-American Culture Genevieve Fabre, Robert O'Meally, 1994-12-08. As Nathan Huggins once stated, altering American history to account fully for the nation's black voices would change the tone and meaning, the frame and the substance of the entire story. Rather than a sort of Pilgrim's Progress tale of bold ascent and triumph, American history with the black parts told in full would be transmuted into an existential tragedy closer, Huggins said, to Sartre's No Exit than to the vision of life in Bunyan. The relation between memory and history has received increasing attention both from historians and from literary critics. In this volume, a group of leading scholars has come together to examine the role of historical consciousness and imagination in African American culture. The result is a complex picture of the dynamic ways in which African American historical identity constantly invents and transmits itself in literature, art, oral documents, and performances. Each of the scholars represented has chosen a different site of memory from a variety of historical and geographical points and from different ideological theoretical and artistic perspectives Yet the book is unified by a common concern with the construction of an emerging African American cultural memory The renowned group of contributors including Hazel Carby Werner Sollors V v Clark Catherine Clinton and Nellie McKay among others consists of participants of the five year series of conferences at the DuBois Institute at Harvard University from which this collection originated Conducted under the leadership of Genevi ve Fabre Melvin Dixon and the late Nathan Huggins the conferences and as a result this book represent something of a cultural moment themselves and scholars and students of American and African American literature and history will be richer as a result Dialect and Dichotomy Lisa Cohen Minnick,2004 Dialect and Dichotomy outlines the history of dialect writing in English and its influence on linguistic variation It also surveys American dialect writing and its relationship to literary linguistic political and cultural trends with emphasis on African American voices in literature

Women's Issues in Zora Neale Hurston's Their Eyes Were Watching God Gary Wiener,2012-05-03 This compelling volume examines Zora Neale Hurston s life and writings with a specific look at key ideas related to Their Eyes Were Watching God Essays discuss a variety of topics including whether the novel can be viewed as an example for all women whether it still relevant today and whether it proves that romantic fantasies cannot last The book also explores contemporary perspectives on women s issues such as the idea of women creating their own model of a female hero and the impact of white stereotypes on modern black women

Literature and Ethics in High School English Classes Ross Collin,2024-10-17 This book offers a defence of ethical reading in secondary school English classes at a time when reformers and policy makers are trying to reorganize English language arts around technical skills or politics Ross Collin shows how students and teachers use literature as a venue for exploring their own and others ethical ideas and practices and argues that moral inquiry in English class is a distinctly social endeavour The book draws ideas from English education and moral philosophy From English education Collin explores social reading or what Louise Rosenblatt named transaction looking at texts commonly taught in secondary school English including Shakespeare s Romeo and Juliet and Jacqueline Woodson s Brown Girl Dreaming From philosophy he draws on arguments about moral vision and literature developed by Iris Murdoch Martha Nussbaum and Nora H m l inen and develops ideas tacit in English education about reading with moral vision He concludes by proposing a new theory of moral vision in transactional reading

Feminist Cyberspaces Sharon Collingwood,Alvina E. Quintana,Caroline J. Smith,2012-01-17 Feminist Cyberspaces Pedagogies in Transition is a collection of essays exploring the ways in which new media technologies are being used in the feminist classroom The collection has been structured to reflect the multifaceted nature of education today Learning takes place on a personal level through independent study and social media it takes place at a local level in our classrooms and lecture halls but it is also increasingly taking place on a global scale as new technologies foster international collaboration between individuals and organizations In addition there is a growing acceptance of learning in the collaborative 3D classrooms of virtual worlds These educational spaces are not mutually exclusive as the contributions to this volume make clear The anthology explores how technology is being used in antiviolence teaching art education HIV and AIDS education and other specialized topics but it also gives many examples of innovations in teaching introductory courses The technology used ranges from the implementation of course management systems for large university classes to the use of digital storytelling in small groups outside the university It also explores technology for removing barriers to people with disabilities in both traditional and online classrooms The collection is not a how to book but it does use practical experience as a basis for feminist theorizing of the classroom All of the essays look at the use of new technology in the light of feminist pedagogy seeking new ways to foster provocative creative and non hierarchical learning that transcends the physical boundaries of the university
