Third Grade Boom Town Test:

The WPA Week in National Defense United States. Work Projects Administration, 1941 Boom Town Blues: Elliot Lake Anne-Marie Mawhiney, Jane Pitblado, 1999-09-01 Boom Town Blues Collapse and Revival in a Single Industry Community tells of the Northern Ontario city of Elliot Lake once the uranium capital of the world which was devastated by the closing of the uranium mines operated by Denison and Rio Algom The closures and mass layoffs were first announced in 1990 with the layoffs occurring from then until June 1996 Throughout the period after the layoffs were announced several major research projects were undertaken One the Elliot Lake Tracking and Adjustment Study follows approximately 1 000 of the laid off miners and 530 of their spouses through their adjustment processes Another the Seniors Needs Assessment examines the human resource and service needs of the increasing numbers of seniors moving to Elliot Lake as part of the community s economic strategy In addition to these social scientific studies several land and environmental reclamation research projects have been undertaken Boom Town Blues Collapse and Revival in a Single Industry Community tells the reader about the results of these studies and gives a variety of community based perspectives on the Elliot Lake story The book highlights the struggles and successes of families and of the community as a whole Boom Town Blues is about one community s struggle to survive to shift its economic base from mining to one where retirement living for seniors mine decommissioning and a community based research facility would be among several economic survival strategies The book is of interest to readers throughout Northern Ontario and indeed wherever single industry towns are threatened by major shifting in their economic base and are struggling to survive The book also provides an excellent case study for teachers students policy makers and politicians Resources in Education, 1991 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Work Projects Administration, 1941 The Oil Weekly, 1926 National Petroleum News, 1912 Controlling Public Education Kathryn A. McDermott, 1999 Most Americans believe that local school districts are the only means by which citizens may exercise control over public education Kathryn McDermott argues to the contrary that existing local institutions are no longer sufficient for achieving either equity or democratic governance Not only is local control inequitable it also fails to live up to its reputation for guaranteeing public participation and citizen influence Drawing upon democratic theory and the results of field research in New Haven Connecticut and three suburbs McDermott contends that our educational system can be made more democratic by centralizing control over funding while decentralizing most authority over schools to the level of schools themselves while enacting public school choice controlled for racial balance To many people in Connecticut and elsewhere the tension between equal opportunity for all students and local control of public education seems impossible to resolve In 1996 the Connecticut Supreme Court ruled in Sheff v O Neill that local control produces unconstitutional segregation of public schools Nearly all of the state s 169 towns operate their own public schools and like the towns they serve the schools are generally homogeneous with respect to race and socioeconomic class In the Sheff ruling the court declared that making school districts coterminous with town lines is the single most important factor contributing to the present concentration of racial and ethnic minorities in the Hartford public school system At the same time the court also acknowledged that the town based school system presently furthers the legitimate nonracial interests of permitting considerable local control and accountability in educational matters In Connecticut and elsewhere it has often seemed necessary to choose between local control and equity in public education and local control has almost always won McDermott argues that rather than seeing local control and equity as conflicting goals policymakers should regard them as equally important components of democracy in public education In her view a truly democratic system of education should both encourage citizen participation in school governance and contribute to the formation and maintenance of a social order in which equality of opportunity prevails over hierarchies of privilege Centralizing distribution of resources and using controlled choice to end racial isolation would provide greater equality of opportunity while decentralizing management of schools would expand citizen participation McDermott s conclusions break new ground in our understanding of local school governance itself and call into question the conventional wisdom about local participation These findings should interest those who study school governance and reform especially in an urban setting as well as policy makers administrators teachers students and citizens eager to improve their schools
