Representing the Rainbow in Young Adult Literature Christine A. Jenkins, Michael Cart, 2018-03-20 Discussions of gender and sexuality have become part of mainstream conversations and are being reflected in the work of more and more writers of fiction particularly in literature aimed at young adult audiences But young readers regardless of their sexual orientation don't always know what books offer well rounded portrayals of queer characters and situations Fortunately finding positive role models in fiction that features LGBTQ themes has become less problematic though not without its challenges In Representing the Rainbow in Young Adult Literature LGBTQ Content since 1969 Christine Jenkins and Michael Cart provide an overview of the literary landscape An expanded version of The Heart Has Its Reasons this volume charts the evolution of YA literature that features characters and themes which resonate not only with LGBTQ readers but with their allies as well In this resource Jenkins and Cart identify titles that are notable either for their excellence accurate thoughtful and tactful depictions or deficiencies books that are wrongheaded stereotypical or outdated Each chapter has been significantly updated and this edition also includes new chapters on bisexual transgender and intersex issues and characters as well as chapters on comics graphic novels and works of nonfiction This book also features an annotated bibliography and a number of author title lists of books discussed in the text that will aid teachers librarians parents and teen readers Encompassing a wider array of sexual identities Representing the Rainbow in Young Adult Literature is an invaluable resource for young people eager to read about books relevant to them and their lives

Self Definition Teodros Kiros,2019-10-10 Self Definition argues that sex gender and race are constructions by the ineffable self as it seeks to define its possibilities free of domination The self s embodiments are themselves performances of self definition Teodros Kiros supports his argument by a careful reading of the literature from both the Global South and Global North that spans figures works and eras from antiquity to our late modern present These readings demonstrate that race gender and sex are performed in the Global South radically differently from in the Global North These three notions as markers of identity are fluid open and expansive and Kiros brilliantly shows this through inquiry into thought rooted in Egypt Ethiopia India and China By the time that the Global North forges possibilities of the self in the modern period race gender and sex become fixed Biology and anatomy become understood as destinies and the possibilities of the self are deeply constrained This book approaches case studies of key figures and movements chronologically and thematically and in doing so Kiros highlights the tensions between the openness of the Global South and the rigidity of the Global North through which human possibilities as exercises of self definition become clear under conditions of freedom Our views of self definition will forever be transformed after reading this important text
