Eradicating Energy Poverty Manashvi Kumar Singh, 2022-02-07 Decentralized energy systems paradigm calls for a evidence based policy for local resource assessment and b context specific energy needs assessment for overcoming barriers to decentralized energy systems in India The pristine bedrock of the book comprises theoretical underpinnings of empiricism behaviourism and realism These concepts find their extension through inter disciplinarity and the mixed methods approach adopted for understanding spaces and cultures of energy consumption Demand side management in energy sector entails migration from a target based TB approach towards an evidence based EB approach for designing context based policies in respect of energy demand and an associated policy shift from a techno economic regime towards a socio technical regime embedded in appropriate contexts Prosumerism holds the key to democratization of energy systems in India

Groundwater governance and the water-energy-food nexus in action: a global review of policy and practice Shah, T., 2023-06-20 The dominance of insular supply side technocratic thinking has posed a major challenge to improving water governance in the face of mounting resource scarcity which has itself been accentuated by climate change During the 1990s global discourse moved from supply driven sectoral interventions to more holistic approaches to water governance as part of larger socioeconomic and environmental processes Integrated water resources management IWRM emphasized demand side water management and used prices participation entitlements laws and regulations to strengthen water governance at hydrological rather than territorial units More recently there have been pleas for more integrative approaches that link land water energy food livelihoods the environment and other spheres each with its own often insular governance structure The evolution in global thinking reflects the need to meet growing human needs by innovating approaches that enhance resilience and the sustainability of landscapes the biosphere and the Earth as a whole To this end the water energy food WEF nexus advocates that society is better off seeking system level balance rather than maximizing sectoral objectives The nexus approach has produced prolific analytical literature over the past decade but integrating it into policy and governance faces many challenges This review paper explores these challenges by focusing on the WEF nexus in action We compare the nexus in several water stressed areas of the world including Iran Saudi Arabia Mexico China Bangladesh and Gujarat India with additional evidence drawn from other places such as Morocco and Punjab Haryana We synthesize these case studies to examine the actual state of play in different locations and tease out practical lessons for mainstreaming nexus thinking in water policy and governance The key conclusion is that specific contexts contingencies and constituencies drive national and sub national policies Directing the outcomes towards the optimal nexus depends on the nature of the state investment in institution building and above all ingenuity in policy design and implementation to overcome resistance to change and strengthen political capital for the leaders who back such policies
