

Introduction

The Veeder-Root brand C346 family offers a new level of performance in a 1/16 DIN instrument. Fully programmable to operate as a preset counter, a rate meter (with output) or an elapsed time counter. Enhanced functionality provides operating modes for batching, background totaling, and operation as dual counters with master sum. When used as an elapsed time counter, the C346 offers unique functionality for measurement of pulse widths or time between pulses. The C346 is available with an LCD display as the industry's only 6-digit LED display for a 48mm x 48mm product.

A wide variety of features are present that enable use in even the most demanding applications. Inputs can be accepted from both NPN or PNP sensors, dry contacts or encoders, and the input scaling function enables rate and count inputs to be displayed in engineering units. Single and dual preset models are available and each preset offers both a transistor output, which can interface to an external SSR or PLC, and a relay output for directly driving a load. The outputs can be programmed for latching or timed operation.

Even with a high level of functionality, simplicity of operation is still maintained. Important parameters such as the preset and prescale values can be called up quickly with direct access keys while an intuitive button per digit interface enables those values to be changed easily.

The C346 has a NEMA 4 rated faceplate is CE approved, and UL and CUL listed.
