Child L2 Writers Amparo Lázaro-Ibarrola,2023-01-04 Studies on L2 writing tasks with child learners have broken through several barriers in the past few years Although long considered a solitary task writing is now regularly done in collaborative pairs and groups as well New and more comprehensive writing and feedback strategies have been implemented and task repetition has made its way from oral into writing tasks Finally research analyses of linguistic outcomes have been complemented by measures of task motivation Drawing on knowledge from the fields of psychology education and SLA this book includes a comprehensive and interdisciplinary analysis of this body of research It pinpoints the specificity of writing tasks for child L2 learners identifies the research gaps that pave the way for future research and offers a guide for teachers who wish to implement writing tasks with young language learners In sum this book demonstrates that child L2 writing constitutes a new field of inquiry and attempts to give child L2 writers a room of their own

Examining Listening Ardeshir Geranpayeh, Lynda B. Taylor, 2013-03-27 This volume examines the nature of second language listening proficiency and how it can be assessed The book highlights the need for test developers to provide a clear explication of the ability constructs which underpin the tests they offer in the public domain This is increasingly necessary if claims about the validity of test score interpretation and use are to be supported both logically and with empirical evidence It operationalises a comprehensive test validation framework which adopts a socio cognitive perspective The framework embraces six core components examining and then analysing Cambridge ESOL listening tasks from the following perspectives Test Taker Cognitive Validity Context Validity Scoring Validity Criterion related Validity and Consequential Validity

Text Complexity and Reading Comprehension Tests Erik Castello, 2008 Based on the analysis of a specially compiled corpus of internationally recognized English as a foreign language EFL reading tests at different levels of proficiency this volume explores the relation between the complexity of written texts and the difficulty of reading comprehension tests It brings together linguistic investigations into the text inherent complexity of the tests and a study of the data derived from their administration to groups of Italian university students The study of text complexity draws on corpus linguistics text linguistics and systemic functional linguistics Both quantitative and qualitative analyses are carried out on the language used in the reading texts and in the related tasks that make up the corpus of tests The assessment of test difficulty on the other hand is informed by research on language testing and in particular by findings and methodologies of Classical Test Theory and Item Response Theory Relevant aspects of these theories are used to analyze and interpret both the data obtained from the administration of the tests and the data collected by means of feedback questionnaires completed by test takers The application of such diverse methodologies and the subsequent comparison of the results of the analyses has brought out interesting correlations between text inherent complexity perceived test difficulty and actual test difficulty
