Teachers' calendar
Queensland state schools

The image displays a 2025 calendar for the United States, organized by month from January to February 2026. Each month's grid shows dates, days of the week, and specific holidays or observances. The calendar uses a color-coding system to distinguish between different types of days: green for national holidays, yellow for observances, and blue for federal holidays. The legend at the bottom clarifies these color codes and provides additional information about the calendar's design, such as the use of a 13th day in February for leap years and the inclusion of a 13th day in January for the year 2025.
