Call for Papers

Religion, Power and Empire/ Hegemony

As we draft this call for papers, the world feels divided along social and religious lines long feared. The conflict over Palestinian land continues to threaten not just stability in the Middle East, but also contests over sovereignty in many parts of the world. In France, Germany and the USA students and university faculty find that their support for Palestinian sovereignty invite harsh institutional and physical consequences as police crack down on protests. In Southern Africa, the appeals have provoked fierce but welcome public debates, and we wish to see this conference engage critically with questions of religion, power and sovereignty/ hegemony that emerge from this historical moment.

In his 2007 book Exterminate all The Brutes, Sven Lindqvist argues that the colonising project was not simply driven by a desire to discipline and dominate, but ultimately to exterminate. Similar sentiments related to domination have been expressed by others such as Edward Saïd, Frantz Fanon, Gayatri Spivak, Rigoberta Menchú, and more recently by Sara Ahmed in their various efforts to make sense of the persistence of othering and the impulse to dominate and to erase/ negate the humanity of the other. Scholars of religion such as Anthony Reddy (2010), Farid Esack (1997), Mimi Raheb (2020) and Steven Friedman (2023) have sought to examine questions of hegemony and religion in different historical moments, and in this tradition, we invite contributions to this longer set of activist and scholarly conversations about the multiple ways that religion, power and sovereignty are entangled in postcolonial contexts, both on the African continent and elsewhere.

We hope to curate a blend of critical and activist reflections, and it is against this backdrop, that the 45th ASRSA conference calls for papers and panels that address the convergences, fractures and new vectors for understanding the interrelationship between religion, power and sovereignty/ hegemony as it is presents in this historical moment, globally, and from our perspectives in Southern Africa.

We thus invite contributions related to methodological nationalisms and religion (Glick-Shiller 2003, van der Veer 2013), human rights as the last utopia (Moyne 2010, An Naji'm 2021), religion and sovereignty (Grimm 2015), religious oppression, displacement and genocide (de la Torre and Raheb 2022) and the general postcolonial critiques of religion and its entanglement with coloniality and empire (Grosfoguel 2007). In the same way, we hope to enjoy discussions related to aesthetics of resistance and protest (Settler 2019, Kuister 2021), regional and transnational movements concerned with resisting hegemony, gender and the hermeneutics of disruption in religious communities (Mahmood 2004, Seedat and Shaik 2022), and performances of (religious) solidarity and allyship in the face of genocide (Edwards 2020, Gids 2020).

The Russian Orthodox Community in Hong Kong Loretta E. Kim, Chengyi Zhou, 2021-08-23 Hong Kong has been a unique society from its establishment as a political region separate from mainland China in the nineteenth century under British colonial rule until the present day as a special administrative region of the People's Republic of China. A hub of interregional and international migration, it has been the temporary and long-term home of people belonging to many racial, ethnic, and cultural groups. This book examines the evolution of the community established by clergy and congregants of the Russian Orthodox Church. This community was first developed in the 1930s and then revived after a hiatus of over two decades from the 1970s to the 1990s with the founding of the Orthodox Parish of Apostles Saints Peter and Paul (OPASPP) at the turn of the twenty-first century. This study demonstrates how the OPASPP has become a vital provider of knowledge about Russian language and culture as well as a religious institution serving both heritage and convert believers. The community formed by and around the OPASPP is important to foster Sino-Russian relations based on individual-to-individual contact and mutual exposure to Chinese and Russian cultures in a region of China which allows spiritual and social diversity with minimal political constraints.

Christian Barriers to Jesus (Revised Edition) J. Paul Pennington, 2022-02-15. A Call to Follow Jesus When He Challenges Our Traditions. There are many challenges to adequately representing Jesus to the majority world, and often Western Christian traditions create unnecessary hindrances to people accepting His truth. This book grew out of many interviews with Indian Jesus followers, both Christians and Yesu bhaktas, who identified painful stumbling blocks to receiving and sharing the gospel. While Hindus often have a high view of Jesus, they struggle with the conventions, practices, and labels around church. Christian Barriers to Jesus uniquely challenges readers to examine nine barrier-producing Christian traditions, exploring the assumptions Christians may hold about the value, origin, or necessity of their customs. The concerns Hindus commonly raise about traditions that confuse, offend, or alienate them. Teachings from Jesus in Scripture that often question the same ideas or practices. Pennington suggests that by not asking deep enough questions about what is essential for following Jesus and what is a non-essential human invention, the church is unnecessarily alienating millions of people from Him. As a body, it is time to honestly address these concerns, developing new patterns of discipleship that reveal Jesus's heart for breaking down barriers instead of creating them. The analysis presented in this book will empower readers to critically examine their personally cherished traditions and the purity of the gospel they present with insights that are relevant in all contexts.
