Answers

Topics

- A. The period of European history at the close of the middle Ages and the rise of the modern world; a cultural rebirth from the 14th through the middle of the 17th centuries. Some characteristics are art, science, math, and religion.
- B. In Italy there were architectural remains, statues, coins, and in scriptures. A wealthy and powerful merchant class further promoted the cultural rebirth. These merchants exerted both political and economic leadership. They stressed education and individual achievement. They also spent lavishly to support the arts.
- C. Italian artists focused on perspective. They incorporated humanist concerns (individual achievement). Also tried to make their paintings very realistic. Also incorporated religious figures in their drawings.
- D.
- E. Details were very important. Greater emphasis on intense religious feeling. They were devotional to art.
- F. Intellectual movement at the heart of the Italian Renaissance that focused on worldly subjects rather than on religious issues. It focused on the individual potential and secularism. They stressed the study of liberal arts: grammar, rhetoric, poetry, ethics, and history. The most important humanists were Erasmus and More.
- G. People looked to the past for models. Humanists turned to ancient classical ideas. Religious reformers were inspired by the bible and early Christian times. The leading theory was the heliocentric theory introduced by Copernicus. Many experts didn't believe the new theory because all scientific knowledge and many religious thinkings were based on arguments developed by classical thinkers. Most experts rejected his heliocentric theory, for if he was right, the whole system of human knowledge might have been called into question. Galileo was one of the famous people during the scientific revolution. He supported Copernicus's heliocentric belief. Another famous thinker was Newton, who proposed that a single force keeps planets in orbit around the sun: gravity.

Developing an Agenda to Guide Forest Social Science, Economics, and Utilization Research Richard W. Haynes, 2005 The USDA Forest Service has had a longstanding presence in utilization economics and social sciences research and development activities The magnitude and diversity of these activities have changed as the questions and the people asking them have changed over the past century These changes challenge the social science and utilization research community to develop this collective research agenda for utilization economics and social sciences research and development activities conducted by the Forest Service It sets the context for the utilization economics and social sciences research and development activities in the Forest Service It deals with the need to balance knowledge creation with the constantly changing demand for information that guides various land management decisions and shapes policymaker perceptions in various environmental debates The research agenda is built around six common themes that will help us create a larger pool of experience from which we can form judgments relative to outcomes and develop tools that can be used to solve a variety of problems It assumes that the worth of utilization economics and social sciences research and development activities will be judged by our ability to create lasting solutions that alter outcomes Finally creating and implementing such a research agenda depends on leaders who can advocate for problem selection that recognizes the full integrated nature of contemporary questions who can synchronize research oriented toward major questions with knowledge creation and who can serve as defenders of social science research against ideological attacks by emphasizing the true nature of questions and the importance of taking integrative approaches
