Birstein, John R. Waldman, William E. Bemis, 1997-05-31 This volume presents a synthesis of basic biological and conservation data for more than 30 species of sturgeons Acipenseridae paddlefishes Polyodontidae and their fossil allies in the order Acipenseriformes Since the Jurassic

the four families of sturgeon like fish have been restricted to the Holarctic where until very recently they flourished in most major river systems Today however virtually all species of sturgeons and paddlefishes face difficult conservation issues Papers in the first section of this volume examine paleontology systematics evolution and basic biology of Acipenseriformes The second section of this volume details current conservation status for most of the world's living species of Acipenseriformes These papers mark the first attempt to make such a global review of recent data from across the northern hemisphere The emerging picture is discouraging for negative anthropogenic impacts range from overfishing to water pollution to dams and water diversion projects and all species are threatened to some degree The third section of the volume considers specific human impacts and responses to conservation issues These include the Aral Sea ecological disaster and its impact on native sturgeons a review of methods for restoring sturgeon populations the use of molecular techniques in developing conservation strategies the extreme sensitivity of sturgeons and paddlefishes to overfishing and the history of a recently convicted caviar poaching ring The volume's summary reviews the status of all extant species and notes future directions for research on behavior ecology and population biology that could lead to better coordinated international conservation efforts

Planetary health approaches to understand and control vector-borne diseases Kimberley Fornace,Jan Conn,Maria Anice Mureb,Leonardo Suveges Moreira Chaves,James Logan,2023-12-21 Mosquitoes transmit many of the pathogens that cause zoonotic diseases from wildlife and livestock to people with devastating consequences for public health. The factors affecting the ecology and evolution of the transmission dynamics of these mosquito borne pathogens can be revealed using multidisciplinary research approaches. This 7th volume of the ECVD series focuses on the ecological factors that determine the transmission dynamics of mosquito borne pathogens naturally circulating between animals of different taxa and their importance for human health. The authors revise the current knowledge on the pathogens that affect wildlife including those maintained in captivity as well as the use of cutting edge techniques for the identification of potential vectors of these pathogens. In addition, this volume explores the role of factors related to global change including changes in landscape use, deforestation and urbanization as major drivers of the distribution of mosquito vectors and the dynamics of pathogen transmission. Finally, updated information on the approaches used to identify and control mosquito borne diseases is presented with a particular focus on those affecting humans. In summary, this book provides an updated review of the different mosquito borne pathogens affecting animals and their public health relevance.
