

When I initially considered a career in Architecture, my mind centered on visual aspects of buildings. Now I'm fascinated thinking of developments through their process of creation and their financial and economic impact in the regional economy.

Real estate development linked to the Tourism sector, is a fast growing and extremely promising sector in Greece. Thanks to its Mediterranean privileged location, Greece commands great investment interest in the areas of hotel development, villas and vacation houses complexes creation. As a result, there are numerous Real Estate Investment companies currently active in Greece, aiming to select premium locations, create innovative development concepts, monitor the construction phase and, later, either manage these properties or sell them to investors.

It is my long-term goal to join such a firm in a managerial position of responsibility, realizing my passion for actively turning a promising piece of land and a concept idea into a real development that creates economic growth and job opportunities for my country. I really dream of having the ability in the future to take a property idea and manage the project up to the point of creating lasting financial value out of it.
