These three earnings for a 3-year-old child are compared with average annual household income for each state. These states are categorized into three groups: high income (above $20,000), middle income ($10,000 to $20,000), and low income (below $10,000). States are grouped into high, middle, and low income based on the median household income for each state in 1990.
