The Player's Guide to Ultimate Tone Report™
$16.99 US, March 2003/VOL.4 NO.5

Denis Cornell

You'll know when you've found the perfect amplifier. As you flip the toggle switch (or turn an old chicken head knob), you will be transported to a place where the cares of the day melt away and time stops. With the white noise of every-day life silenced, the music that lives within you will effortlessly pour forth for hours, but mere minutes will seem to have passed when you finally lay down your guitar. You'll sit back and consider all of the promise that burns so bright within the jeweled pilot light of your perfect amp, and you'll wonder, "Will I ever return to that place again?" And of course, you will return there, many times. You found the perfect amplifier.*

An instrument that enables us to break the bonds of daily existence and soar above our troubles rarely must qualify as a thing of inspiration and magic. How can we fail to regard the special and rare instruments that give us our voice as being anything but magical? And what of the men and women who build and shape them? Is the inspiration we receive from their work a happy accident, or something more? Part science, art, and deft craftsmanship, all instruments betray a unique visual and sonic personality that can be traced to the builder. Truly great amplifiers dramatically expand the canvas on which we create our very best work. The mystical arrangement of electrons that occurs in an utterly inspiring amplifier is no accident, but there seems to be a bit of magic at work, too. Superior instruments of all kinds are judged as such, in part, because their sound mysteriously defies explanation. They can be faithfully, meticulously copied, yet these "replicas" can and often do completely miss the mark. They lack the magic...

It is our privilege and pleasure to introduce to you Mr. Denis Cornell of Southend on Sea, Essex, England — a builder of thoroughly magical amplifiers. Enjoy...
